Tax Bills Put Over To Aug. 24

Senate Finance Board Completes Hearings on Huge Tax Bill Passed By House

Freeze Everything

National Grange Head Says It Should Be the First Step

Washington, Aug. 15 — The Senate Finance Committee completed its public hearings Friday on the $6,271,000,000 tax bill passed by the House and took a recess until August 24, when executive consideration of proposed amendments to the measure will begin.

After Friday's hearing, Senator George, committee chairman, told reporters that he hoped to have his committee's draft of the measure ready for Senate consideration early in September.

If the general form of the House measure is followed, he said, the Senate draft might be ready for Senate action by the first week of next month. If drastic revisions in this draft are adopted by the committee, he added, both the report and Senate consideration would probably come later than this.

Mr. George said the committee hearings had demonstrated to him that some form of tax relief should be given individuals and corporations which incurred heavy debts previous to American entrance into the war and to investors in war savings bonds.

He said that the hearing had demonstrated that the high rates in the bill justified such relief for corporations, particularly in order to preserve their solvency and make it possible for them to reconvert to peacetime production when the war ends.

'Freeze Everything'

Albert S. Goss, master of the national Grange, advised the nation today that the first step to halt inflation should be to "freeze everything temporarily."

Goss, in a prepared radio address, said "some mistakes have been made which threaten to break down our whole price control program," and recommended steps to halt inflation, including these:

Freeze everything temporarily, including wages.

Recognize the fact that it will be necessary for all to accept somewhat lower standards of living.

Abandon the idea that all increased living costs must be accompanied by increased income.

Permit necessary price adjustments, up or down, where profits are excessive.

Permit adjustments of substandard wages or cases where injustices or inequities are shown, but not to exceed 2½ per cent annually in the general wage level.

The Grange master also advised a comprehensive research into the question "of a practical base for determining that portion of the national income which should in justice go to industry, labor and agriculture."

Meats Available Here Despite 25 Per Cent Cut

Although there is a widespread shortage of beef, pork and veal throughout the country owing to the increasing demands of the government for meats for the armed forces and for the lend-lease program, in Kingston it is possible for householders to obtain their usual supply.

Inquiry at one of the large meat packing houses today brought the information that their usual supply of beef, pork and veal had been curtailed about 25 per cent. Some of the large retail dealers also reported that their supply had been curtailed, but that so far they have not experienced difficulty in supplying the usual trade with their meats.

One large distributor of meats said today that if householders would cooperate in conserving meat that there would be ample supplies. "So far," he said "you have not observed people standing in line to obtain their meat supplies in Kingston."

Inquest Into Dodge Death

Detroit, Aug. 15 (AP)—Prosecutor William E. Dowling said today that an inquest would be conducted next week in a new effort to determine how John Duval Dodge, son of the late multimillionaire automobile manufacturer, suffered the ten-inch skull fracture blamed for his mystifying death. "I am convinced that all the facts have not yet been told," Dowling declared. Dodge collapsed in a police station Wednesday morning as he was awaiting questioning concerning what Dowling said had been a drinking party that was broken up by a domestic quarrel in which his wife suffered a cut lip. He died in Receiving Hospital Thursday night.

Nine Members of U. S. Bomber Crew Die in Crash in Cornfield

Troops From Fort Custer Guard Scene Where Big Plane Fell, Parts Scattered for Over Half Mile

Hastings, Mich., Aug. 15 (AP).—Nine officers and crew members were killed in the flaming crash last night of a multi-motored Army air force bomber in a cornfield seven miles south of here.

Troops from Fort Custer today guarded the scene where the big plane, reported to be attached to a heavy bombardment group from the Willow Run Bomber Plant near Ypsilanti, fell.

Public relations officers at Fort Custer said the nine dead were:

Lieut. L. H. Tally, Lieut. Maurice C. McCall, Lieut. Eugene G. King, Second Lieut. James J. Dailey, staff sergeant John Hazen, Corp. E. L. Prother, Steve Spantard, George F. Strenge and R. W. Carillon.

Their home addresses were not immediately available.

Parts of the big plane, which came to earth within 100 feet of the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Proefrock and tossed flaming gasoline into the back dooryard, starting grass fires, were scattered for more than a half mile, witnesses said.

Army ambulances removed the bodies of the crew to Kellogg Field, at nearby Battle Creek, Mich., for identification. No official statement concerning the crash was immediately forthcoming, and officers said the names of the victims probably would not be disclosed until the next of kin had been notified.

Many witnesses who saw the plane pass over Hastings said it appeared to be in difficulty even then. Undershiriff L. J. Doster said he heard its engines sputter and die as it passed over the city. Others said there was no sound from the motors—only an eerie whistling—as it swung low over crowds at the Barry county fairgrounds.

Fifteen-year-old Louis Rabbitt and his brother, Kenneth, of Battle Creek, said they saw the plane plunge to earth with a crash and an explosion followed by flames as they were driving along a highway a mile away.

Mrs. Proefrock, near whose farm home the craft crashed, described the same eerie whistling heard by the fairground crowds. She said the crash itself "sounded like the voice of doom."

Sale of Rationing Books Dangerous

Albany Case Demonstrates Way in Which F.B.I. Agents Operate

If anyone offers to sell a gasoline ration book to you it might be well to consider the proposition carefully before parting with your money. Not only the sale of the book but its use constitutes a serious violation of the law and the penalty is heavy. Stolen ration books, all serially numbered, are being offered in some places for sale but the F. B. I. usually knows the number of the missing books and any attempt to use them is liable to be costly.

This was demonstrated yesterday in Albany when F. B. I. agents picked up two Syracuse youths and held them for a hearing before a U. S. Commissioner in $1,000 bail each. According to the story of Arthur Cornelius, chief of the Albany F. B. I. office, George W. Glover, 19, a student from Brooklyn volunteered to work in the Syracuse ration office. He worked one day and then 15 supplementary ration books were found to be missing.

A detective overheard people in the neighborhood of a gas station tell of buying books for $4 each and the F. B. I. agents placed Frederick B. Power, 20, Syracuse gas station attendant under arrest on a charge of selling 10 books at $4 each. Both young men will have a hearing on their innocent plea before U. S. Commissioner Hancock on September 19.

Gas station operators are urged to check the record on all gas ration books with the car license number and also to check serial numbers with lists of stolen books.

Woman Dies in Jail

An inquest in the death of Ann Fay Harrison, 26, who died some time during Sunday night or Monday in the county jail in Catskill, where she had been taken on a vagrancy charge, was conducted Friday by Dr. Alton D. Daley, Greene county coroner, and the hearing was continued today. Testimony revealed the woman had died from a subdural hemorrhage, which may have occurred from a blow, a fall or from natural causes, as the hemorrhage was beneath the skin, the coroner reported. The evidence so far developed that there was no foul play.

Contracts Announced

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Contracts by the Army Engineers announced by the War Department included: Between $100,000 and $500,000: Wortman and Sons, Inc., New York, temporary frame buildings, Nassau county, N. Y.; New York Engineer Office.

Consider Wage Boost

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—The War Labor Board today considered a recommendation for a five-cent hourly increase for 225,000 General Motors workers. Two CIO unions asked a rise of $1 daily or 12½ cents an hour. Two of the three WLB panel members, Fowler V. Harper, public member, and Patrick Fagan, of the United Mine Workers, recommended a maintenance-of-membership clause, effective as of last January 1, and the wage retroactive to April 28, when the old contract expired.

Early Morning Gun Fight

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 15 (AP)—One federal fugitive was killed and two others were shot and captured today when Tennessee and Georgia officers freed a kidnaped Chattanooga policeman in an early morning gun fight. City Patrolman Ray Evatt was wounded slightly when the posse closed in on the trio at a dairy farm just across the Georgia line about 12 miles south of here. Traffic Patrolman Logan Stroud, the abducted officer, was freed unharmed after he had brought fellow officers to his rescue by telephone.

Three Earth Shocks

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—Fordham University reported today that its seismograph had recorded three earthquake shocks since yesterday afternoon at a point about 2,280 miles from New York city. No direction was specified. The shocks were timed at 4:5748 and 5:0314 p. m. yesterday and 2:48 a. m. today.

Kingston Plasma Bank Report Made by Kingston War Council

Kingston War Council submits the following report on progress of plasma collection and storage:

On April 25, 1942, Mayor William F. Edelmuth through the donation of one pint of his own blood inaugurated the Kingston Blood and Plasma Bank for the purpose of building up adequate stores of blood plasma for the City of Kingston to be available to any who might need it as a result of the war. The injured of our city of course would have first lien on the plasma but should a catastrophe befall any other community and spare Kingston, the plasma would be shared with this stricken community. Perhaps most important of all is the fact that such a store of plasma is a reservoir which the Army and Navy may draw upon at any time.

The minimum quantity of plasma recommended by the federal authorities for a city the size of Kingston is 350 pints, that is, one pint for each hospital bed. There are 250 regular hospital beds in the city with an additional 100 beds to be set up in case of need.

Since the bank opened there have been 327 donations of blood from which 125 pints of plasma have been collected, frozen and stored. Donald Swan of the Kingston Cold Storage is supplying the freezing facilities while many of the drug stores and pharmacists are providing storage space. For example, there are 24 pints of plasma at Weber's and at Bongartz, while Central Pharmacy has 18 pints and Walker's and Franklin Pharmacy have six pints each. Shortly McBride and other druggists will receive as much as they can conveniently provide space for in their freezing compartments.

Not only the War Council but the entire city is indebted to those people who have already donated blood. This indebtedness will be equally great to those who will make such donations in the future. We are pleased to make public the following list of donors up to and including August 8, 1942:

List of Donors

Week ending May 2: Mayor William F. Edelmuth, J. S. Taylor, Stanley Gottlieb, Homer Korner, John B. Krom, Dorothy Morselis Mobley, Donald Monroe Leith, Helen W. Gill, Joseph L. Deegan,

Wasp Was Not Hit, Berlin Correction

Berlin (from German broadcasts), Aug. 15 (AP)—The German high command corrected its report of August 13 that the 14,700-ton United States aircraft carrier Wasp had been hit by six bombs and set afire in the Mediterranean and said the damaged warship instead was a British aircraft carrier of the Illustrious type.

The correction was made in a special bulletin describing the results of the Mediterranean convoy battle in which the high command listed 15 merchant ships totalling about 180,000 tons, the British aircraft carrier Eagle, two cruisers and three destroyers as sunk. The convoy was made up of 21 merchant ships, the announcement said.

A special announcement of the German high command today, however, listed 15 merchant ships totalling about 180,000 tons—and including all tankers in the 21-ship convoy—as sunk along with the British aircraft carrier Eagle, two cruisers and three destroyers.

Strange Stench Blows in Bronx

Smell Is So Offensive It Chases the Mosquitoes

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—For the second time within a month, a strange stench pollutes the air in the Bronx and again nauseated citizens are clamoring for something to be done about it.

Something is being done but without result, for no one—expert or layman—has found the source of the smell. And many have tried.

Yesterday, for instance, Dr. John Oberwager, health department sanitation chief, postponed his vacation to go hunting for the odor. He didn't find it but right after he left, the wind changed, and there was the smell back again. He and his staff are going back today.

The afflicted area is in Clason Point, a secton of about 600 one-family houses and a couple of apartment buildings in the southeast Bronx. Citizens say the odor is indescribable, a combination of rotten eggs and a mud flat at low tide.

It disturbs sleep, creates nausea, discolors paint, tarnishes metals.

Willard Beach, one of the section's property owners, declared the odor was far more sickening than in the first visitation in July. Beach said the fumes had penetrated his refrigerator—and the enamel turned black.

"We're organizing a committee of property owners here at the Point," asserted Beach, "and we intend to march on city hall—to demand that something be done."

To Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, Beach sent this telegram:

"Another attack of hydrogen sulphate gas of greater intensity and covering greater area of Clason Point section now in progress. Paint in homes turning black. Residents nauseated. Odor unbearable. Immediate action imperative."

The mayor asked experts from the Bureau of Mines in Washington to investigate.

There is one ray of sunshine—Beach said the smell is so offensive that it has chased away the mosquitoes.

Searching for Gearhard

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—Bronx patrolmen and detectives still searched today for Eugene Gearhard, 34, of 6 Webster avenue, New Rochelle, who disappeared Thursday night from the jail on Hart's Island in the upper East river. The Department of Correction reported last night that Gearhard was missing when Thursday's late roll call was taken. New Rochelle authorities were requested to be on the lookout for the man, described as five feet, eight inches tall, weighing 152 pounds and having hazel-colored eyes, brown hair and a sallow complexion.

Cotton Chief

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Thomas Bancroft, Old Westbury, N. Y., has been appointed chief of the cotton section of the War Production Board, the Office of War Information announced yesterday. Bancroft has been chief of the carded fabrics unit of W. P. B.'s cotton section. The carded fabrics section, the O. W. I. said, had been divided into two units, with George Ward, Forest Hills, N. Y., heading the carded colored goods unit and J. M. Withrow, East Orange, N. J., the carded grey goods unit.

Smith, Ten Broeck Avenue Salvage Collection Monday

The Kingston Salvage Committee wishes to remind the residents of Smith and Ten Broeck avenues that the members of the Y. M. C. A. Salvage Club will call at their homes on Monday morning to pick up any scrap metal or rubber that the residents wish to give to the children.

Since these two streets are being used as a test case, before a city wide collection is made; the Salvage Committee hopes that the residents will cooperate wholeheartedly with the boys and girls.

The collection will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and any residents who are not going to be at home, may leave their scrap materials on the front porch.

Navy Takes Over Strike-Bound Cable Plant

Rear Admiral H. G. Bowen, Dwight R. Palmer, president of the General Cable Corporation, and Brig. Gen. R. K. Robertson (left to right) confer as the U. S. Navy, by presidential direction, took charge of the company's plant at Bayonne, N. J. Disregarding pleas of their local and international officers, union workmen went on strike after a War Labor Board ruling denied them wage increases.

Malta One of Most Strategic Points in World

Here Is Real Reason for Britain's Risk of Precious Fighting Equipment

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Once more the British have run the gantlet of Axis warplanes and naval ships in the Mediterranean to deliver a big convoy of reinforcements and airplanes to the island of Malta, and the cost of this great engagement has been heavy for both sides.

Why should it be necessary for Britain thus to risk fighting equipment more precious than rubies? Why must she jeopardize aircraft carriers, battleships, cruisers, destroyers, transports and cargo ships in order to serve an island which covers only ninety-five square miles and sits in the midst of an enemy-built hell?

The answer is that Malta is one of the most important strategic points, big or little, in the world.

This island is the British air-force observation post of the Mediterranean, crouching like a one-eyed Cyclops in the middle of that sea and forever scanning the blue waters for signs of the enemy.

It is the powerful base from which, once Cyclops has spotted the foe, warplanes set out on their mission of destruction.

And it's from here that airmen fly to the aid of Allied shipping which has been attacked.

Malta has been a base for untold centuries. Certainly the Phoenicians colonized it more than a thousand years before Christ. The island was taken by Napoleon in 1798 and was captured by the British two years later. Since then this well-placed naval base has played a vital role in advancing British power and prestige to the point where John Bull became known as the policeman of Europe.

Malta no longer can be used as a naval base, excepting for submarines, because Hitler maintains a powerful force of warplanes in Mussolini's Sicily, only fifty-six miles north of the British island, and makes it too hot for shipping in Malta's otherwise fine harbors. However, the Nazi chief hasn't been able to drive the Royal Air Force out of this stronghold, despite one of the fiercest and most protracted aerial bombardments the war has known. Little Malta's sturdy population of a quarter million has dived into caverns in the rocks and defied the bombs, and the Royal warplanes have emerged from their underground hangers to do battle.

Spots Ships to Africa

British air-scouts are constantly on the move over the Mediterranean from Malta. Their chief business, of course, is to spot enemy supply ships and transports headed from Axis ports in Europe to Africa.

This work is essential right now, because reinforcements and supplies must be kept from Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's desert forces at all hazards. His dangerous offensive against Egypt has been held up for lack of resources, and the British are praying that their opposing army under General Auchinleck can be reinforced

Rainfall Contributed About $100,000,000

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Government power experts estimated that rainfall had contributed about $100,000,000 to the nation's war effort in the last few weeks.

The Geological Survey reported that, in contrast with the drouth that menaced the output of aluminum for fighting planes a year ago, especially in the southeast, heavy rains have filled many of the nation's great hydro-reservoirs to overflowing.

"Why, in one night," one power official said, "at least $1,000,000 worth of rain in terms of power has fallen in the Tennessee valley alone."

Slot Machines Arrests Here

Several Places Are Raided in Town of Wawarsing

Deputy sheriffs on Friday night made raids at several places in the town of Wawarsing in search of slot machines. The raids were conducted under the direction of District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and were carried out by Sheriff Howard C. Anderson, Under Sheriff Stanley Winne, Deputies Clayton Vredenburg, Herbert Segelken, Keates Young and Edward Finn.

At the Pioneer Country Club, Greenfield Park, four machines were seized and Benjamin Goldberg, concessionaire, was arrested and fined $40 before Justice of the Peace Willard Peet at Ellenville, when Goldberg pleaded guilty to possession of the machines.

The concessionaire, Harry Martin, was arrested at the Seven Gables at Greenfield and one slot machine was seized. He pleaded guilty before Justice Peet and was fined $5.

The machines, four nickel machines and one dime machine were seized and the proceeds, between $70 and $75, was turned over to the town poor fund as provided by law. Richard Overbagh appeared for The People at both arraignments.

Cites Failure of Coordination in Army-Navy Forces

Rep. Magnuson Declares We Lost Chance to Wipe Out Japs at Dutch Harbor

Seattle, Aug. 15 (AP)—United States bombers lost a chance to annihilate a Japanese surface force, including an aircraft carrier, off Alaska last June because of the "unfortunate failure of army and navy coordination," Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D.-Wash.) said today.

Magnuson, a member of the House naval affairs committee, told interviewers on his return from an inspection tour of Alaska military bases that 'failure on the part of one army command to interpret liberally standing naval orders regarding enemy contact resulted in a delay which gave the enemy an opportunity to remove itself."

The army command responsible, he added, has since been relieved of duty, "and I am glad to say that there is no possibility of this happening again." The army high command in Alaska now, he predicted, would "welcome a Japanese task force at this stage of the game."

"The army command was located within operating distance of the Japanese task force," Magnuson said. "I have information that it was notified soon after the Dutch Harbor attack that navy PYB's (flying boats) had a Japanese carrier under continual observation, and that they were waiting for the arrival of a land-base aircraft to make the kill.

"The army command, however, believed its orders were not sufficiently broad to warrant sending out a bombing force at this phase of the battle without definite instructions.

"As a result, army planes remained on the ground, and before naval authorities could straighten the matter out, the Japs had

Democrats Unite Behind Hoyt to Defeat Fish—Bid for Republicans

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—Democratic leaders of Dutchess, Putnam and Orange counties have united behind Ferdinand A. Hoyt of Beacon in a drive to defeat Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr., victor in Tuesday's 26th Congressional District Republican primary—and made a bid for anti-Fish Republicans to come along.

After conferring yesterday, the Democrats and anti-Fish Republicans pledged a "fight to the finish" against the pre-war isolationist, although the Republicans did not commit themselves as to whom they would support.

Chairman James H. Causey of the independent committee of the 26th district, said the Democrats had agreed to put the banner into the hands of Hoyt, former Beacon city judge who won the Democratic primary.

Causey said the Republican conferees "presented their position and agreed to consider the discussions but made no commitment." (Anti-Fish Republicans still may back an independent, which would spell a three-way race.)

Meanwhile, Fish, after discussing campaign plans with Assemblyman Mallory Stephens of Brewster, Putnam county Republican chairman, said "it makes no difference whether they put up an independent or not . . . we are going to beat them."

"* * * The People are going to be with me," said Fish. "The real issue is winning the war. We want national unity. I am going to have a lot of Democrats voting for me."

Causey said in a statement that the Democratic leaders at the anti-Fish meeting had outlined their decision "for a unified and vigorous campaign to win for Ferdinand Hoyt, and expressed the hope that they would be joined in the support of this campaign by anti-Fish voters in the 26th District."

Discuss Campaign

"A general plan for the campaign was discussed," said Causey, "and I know that after these talks a unity will be established and Fish will be defeated. The voters

Navy Reports Marines Are Progressing In Consolidating Beaches on Three Islands

Menacing Drive

Soviet Reports Nazis In Menacing Drive On Astrakhan

(By The Associated Press)

Japanese dispatches acknowledged for the first time today that United States Marines have landed "on one of the Solomon Islands," 900 miles northeast of Australia, and that Japanese troops were engaged in fierce fighting to ward off the American sea-borne invasion.

In Washington, the navy announced that the marines were "progressing satisfactorily" in consolidating beachheads on three islands in the Solomons.

There were indications, too, that Allied fliers had won vital superiority in the southwest Pacific skies.

English dispatches from Sydney, Australia, said the Americans "have or soon will have complete control over Tulagi Island," site of one of the best harbors in the South Seas war theatre.

Russia's armies battled desperately today to stem grave new threats to Stalingrad and to the vital port of Astrakhan on the Caspian Sea, while in the Caucasus Nazi columns were reported to have captured the rail city of Georgievsk, 120 miles northwest of the rich Grozny oil fields, after a 20-mile advance.

Soviet dispatches said German troops were fanning out from the Kotelnikovski sector, 95 miles south of Stalingrad, in a menacing drive toward Astrakhan.

The Germans said earlier this week they had captured Elista, 100 miles below Kotelnikovski and only 160 miles from Astrakhan. The Caspian sea port is a major point of entry for Allied supplies to Russia.

Japanese Boasts

"The huge naval battle off the Solomon Islands which resulted in overwhelming victory for the Japanese navy has been concluded according to latest reports," asserted a Tokyo dispatch to D.N.B., official German news agency.

"In its main phases, the battle lasted without interruption three whole days beginning August 7.

"Only a few enemy units succeeded in escaping, apparently in the direction of Australia.

"Fierce fighting is reported to be taking place between Japanese forces and United States Marines who have landed on one of the Solomon Islands."

Tokyo offered no explanation of how American leathernecks established beachheads, even on one island, in the face of its claims to have routed Allied naval forces.

By contrast, a U. S. Navy communique last night declared:

"Naval units are engaged in protecting our lines of communications (in the Solomons) and escorting supply vessels to our occupying forces."

This clearly indicated that the Japanese fleet had not dispersed Allied naval forces and that steady Allied reinforcements probably were moving to bolster the marines.

Previously, the Japanese had boasted that the naval battle was a one-night engagement, claiming that 40 Allied warships and supply vessels had been sunk or damaged, and a Japanese military spokesman asserted that the U. S. Marines had been repulsed.

Australia Dispatches

Dispatches from Australia said the marines now were so strongly entrenched that only "the heaviest reinforcements" could dislodge them.

Winging far out over the South Seas, giant U. S. Army flying fortresses and attack bombers were striking 'round-the-clock blows to prevent the enemy from transporting reinforcements to the battle scene.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said Allied fliers pounced again on a Japanese convoy including troop transports en route toward the Solomons off New Britain, attacking it for the fourth time.

Bad weather obscured the results, but a communique said Allied gunners shot down two Japanese Zero fighters and damaged three others out of six enemy planes which attempted to break up the attack.

While the main battle raged in the Solomons, other United Nations troops engaged in a series of clashes with the enemy at Kokoda, New Guinea, 60 miles west

Charged With Impersonating Federal Agent

Newark, N. J., Aug. 15 (AP)—The F. B. I. accused a lumber broker today of falsely representing himself as a member of the priorities division of the War Production board and using the post to halt construction of a private dwelling by a contractor with whom he had quarreled.

Arrested in the charge of impersonating a federal officer was Michael E. Goldberg, 37, of Englewood, who was arraigned yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Marvin A. Spaulding and released in $2,500 bail.

E. E. Conroy, F. B. I. head in New Jersey, said Goldberg recently quarreled with Rocco Demencurio, Teaneck contractor, over the price of lumber. On August 6, he added, a man telephoned a bank which was about to lend Demencurio $4,300 on the $7,500 dwelling, identified himself as "Walter Bradley" of the W. P. B.'s priorities division and said he had ordered the construction work in Fort Lee halted. A telegram confirming the telephone call followed. The bank withdrew the loan.

Conroy said no "Walter Bradley" was employed by the W. P. B. and said the F. B. I. had evidence linking Goldberg with the phone call and the telegram.

The bank advanced the money yesterday to Demencurio.

Story of Snyder Hollow Told in Woodland Play

The Story of Snyder Hollow, a play written and produced by a group of 11-year-olds of Camp Woodland, was given at the Methodist Church in Phoenicia Thursday evening, August 13. The Camp Woodland Chorus, composed of 60 campers ranging in age from 11 to 16, sang several songs.

Snyder Hollow is the early name of Woodland Valley, and the play deals with the days when the valley was teeming with life and activity, when the tannery of Col. Snyder stood on what is now a cow pasture of the Hallenbeck farm. The play begins with the founding of the tannery and ends with the period when the hemlock trees were gone, the tannery abandoned and finally burned to the ground.

How the play came to be written is an interesting story in itself. The children of Camp Woodland make many excursions into the surrounding country, unearthing local history and producing plays based on their findings. They have been doing this for years, travelling for miles away from camp, but it was only this summer that they found an exciting story right at their doorstep. Lewis Hallenbeck, whose farm adjoins camp, presented Camp Woodland with a gunnysack full of old records of Col. Snyder's tannery, dating back to 1857.

The children scanned the records, went over the site of the tannery—now only a few mounds of earth—and then interviewed people whose names appeared in the records. They found several descendants of the pioneers still living in the valley and from them gleaned an interesting story. Out of this material they produced the play which the people of Phoenicia witnessed.

Pastor to Sail

The Rev. Claude McIntosh, former pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Marlborough, and now a chaplain in the U. S. Army, has been ordered to leave for an unknown port of embarkation. He was formerly stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss. The Rev. Mr. McIntosh became pastor of the Marlborough church on February 1, 1938, and reported at Fort Dix on December 4, 1941, to serve as chaplain.

Charges Assault

Peter Scully, 36, of Hurley was arrested Friday evening by Deputies Reynolds and Gilmore and held for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Roger H. Loughran. The arrest was made on complaint of Scully's wife, who charged assault, third degree.

DIED

Threatening Drive

Moscow, Aug. 15 (AP)—German forces in the Kotelnikovski region southwest of Stalingrad fanned out in a threatening new drive today toward Astrakhan where the Volga meets the Caspian, dispatches from the front said.

Other Nazis made fresh progress toward Stalingrad forcing a "deep wedge" in Red Army defenses south of Kletskaya in the Don Bend and pushing the Russians back even further to the northeast of Kotelnikovski, which lies 95 miles from Stalingrad.

The new threat to the broad Volga which is Russia's main waterway was considered as dangerous if not more so than the twin thrusts against Stalingrad, great industrial city on the river.

(At Kotelnikovski, the Germans still were 245 miles away from Astrakhan, but the Germans earlier this week claimed the capture of Elista, which lies only 160 miles to the west.)

Vast wastelands traversed by poor roads lie to the southeast of Kotelnikovski.

Astrakhan is one of Russia's chief food sources and is a key to the northern Caspian Sea as well as the Allied supply route from the Persian Gulf.

The Nazi drive in the Caucasus is so swift and mobile that Red Army units are forced to be vigilant day and night to prevent encirclement. No such thing as a stable front exists in the Caucasus, dispatches said.

Heavy fighting was flaring in all sectors of the Don Bend, the bulletin indicated.

The withdrawal below Kotelnikovski, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad, was made under pressure of superior enemy forces," the mid-day communique said, adding that after withdrawing "slightly" the Russians had "consolidated themselves in advantageous positions."

Local Death Record

Eugene Relyea, 78, died this morning in his home in New Paltz. He had been in good health until his death. He was born in the house which is known as the Kleinekill Farm, and was the youngest of 12 children, seven boys and five girls, a son of the late Christopher and Sarah B. Relyea. Of the 12 children but one, Mrs. Henrietta DuBois, aged 87 years, survives. Besides his sister Mr. Relyea is survived by his wife, Mrs. Charlotte E. Reeve Relyea; a daughter, Lois, wife of Walter Hasbrouck, Jr., a grandson, Richard Relyea Hasbrouck, and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held from the home on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in the Lloyd cemetery.

Ellenville, Aug. 14 — Miss Fannie M. Billings, a resident of Ellenville for many years, died at her home in Hurleyville, Monday, as the result of a stroke. She had been ill for 11 years. She was born at White Lake, September 12, 1867, a daughter of Thomas W. and Laura A. Haight Billings. She was a member of the Ellenville Methodist Church and a charter member of the Hunt Memorial Bible Class. She had been a dressmaker. Surviving is one brother, Melvin Billings. Funeral services were held at Hurleyville at the home of her brother, Thursday, with the Rev. David B. Achterkirch officiating. Burial was in the Fantinekill cemetery.

Ellenville, Aug. 14 — Myron C. Wood, a prominent Ellenville citizen for about 50 years, died at the local hospital on Sunday, August 9. He had been ill for some time. Mr. Wood was born in Kerhonkson, October 11, 1864, a son of Marshall and Eleanor Decker Wood. He had been engaged in the furniture and undertaking business here until it was taken over by his son, Burton H. Wood in 1920. He married Miss Mabel Hoornbeek at Napanoch in 1892. Survivors include his wife and son, of Ellenville and three sisters, Mrs. Wesley Payne, Mrs. Edwin Hill and Mrs. Whinetta Wood, all of Albany. Funeral services were private and were held at his home, 59 Center street, Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. Lloyd W. Bell, pastor of the Reformed Church officiating. Burial was in the Fantinekill cemetery.

NEW PALTZ

Honor Roll Starts

New Paltz, Aug. 15—The Sullivan Shafer Post of the American Legion has built a large honor roll board which will be erected on the library lawn at the corner of Main and North Front streets. The honor roll will include the name of every resident of the town of New Paltz who is serving with the armed forces. Every man in the armed service is represented by a wooden plaque which is arranged alphabetically on the honor roll. New names will be placed on the board as men leave to enter the armed service. With the co-operation of the Service Cheer Committee the names of the New Paltz boys now in service have been carefully checked and are listed to date as follows: Robert O. Baum, George S. Bogert, Daniel D. Bolin, Everett Brannen, George A. Burleigh, Daniel E. Calhoun, Jr., Albert Caston, Joseph H. Compton, Robert Connolly, Harold M. Cramb, Orlando Decker, Thomas Diston, Donald H. Chile to Break

Santiago, Aug. 15 (AP)—The announcement that President Juan Antonio Rios would visit the United States this fall was taken by political leaders today as a sign that Chile was veering sharply toward a break with the Axis. If Chile should join her 19 sister republics in the continental solidarity front, Argentina would be left alone as the only American nation on friendly terms with the Axis. A large segment of Chilean opinion is ardently anti-Axis and some political leaders who have been campaigning for a break predict that it now is inevitable—perhaps even before Rios starts out in mid-October as President Roosevelt's invited guest.

Kunze Testifies

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 15 (AP)—Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, former chief of the German-American Bund, has testified that the Rev. Kurt E. B. Molzahn played no part in the espionage plot to which Kunze and three others have pleaded guilty. The Philadelphia minister is on trial on the same charge: Conspiracy to hand over American military secrets to the Axis. The testimony of the slim, moustached Kunze yesterday drew the retort of the prosecution that he was trying to "exculpate" the Lutheran pastor "because you have been ordered to." The trial will resume on Monday.

Film Shorts Longer

More of the 15-minute propaganda film shorts have been ordered by the Ministry of Information in London because moving picture theatres have shown scant interest in five-minute shorts. One 15-minute film a month is to be supplied free. Although the five-minute shorts were free half of the houses neglected to use them despite agreements with the Ministry. It is now proposed that the five-minute films be screened by compulsion—a step everyone wants to avoid.

Hit-Run Plants Expand

China's "hit-and-run" factories which move when embattled armies hamper their production today produce a wide variety of products, Chungking reports. In addition to ornaments and military supplies, these plants make machine tools, cotton clothes, shoes, silk and paper. Weaving and printing establishments also travel.

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—Selected stocks continued to edge forward in today's market but many leaders seemed to have pretty well exhausted their recovery power.

Bullish sentiment still was bolstered by reports of American progress in the battle of the Solomons although these were offset to some extent as a market factor by the cloudier war picture in Russia.

The general direction of the list was upward at the start and, near the final hour, modest advances were in the majority. Dealings were slow.

In front at one time or another were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Warner Bros., Homestake Mining, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott, Patino Mines, Westinghouse and du Pont. Texas & Pacific Railway touched a new 1942 high, along with Ohio Oil and Borden.

The buoyant aircrafts of yesterday were at a standstill. Unchanged to off a trifle were Southern Pacific, Western Union, American Telephone and American Water Works.

Bonds were steady and commodities mixed.

Work Proceeds At Normal Pace In Cable Plant

Bayonne, N. J., Aug. 15 (AP)—Production of war materials proceeded at a normal pace today at the General Cable Company plant where workers who participated in a wildcat walkout found that navy operation meant that wages and working conditions in effect before the strike would prevail.

Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen quietly took over the strike-bound plant yesterday and the 1,000 strikers returned to their tasks, jubilantly proclaiming their desire to work for "Uncle Sam, our new boss."

The first action by Admiral Bowen was to post a notice that "any interference with the operation of this plant is an offense against the United States."

Then he made clear that conditions would be the same as before Monday when the workers quit without the support of their A.F.L. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in a demand for a 10-cent boost in wages from scales ranging from 78 cents an hour and for double pay for holiday periods.

The War Labor Board had turned down their demands a few days before.

Aged Man and Bundle Get in Local Trouble

"You can't kid me," read one of the several hundred buttons pinned to the shirt and hat of William Schnell, 72, who told the police he had no home when he was picked up at 1:55 o'clock this morning on Broadway, near Pine Grove avenue, charged with disorderly conduct in loitering about the streets.

The aged man, in addition to wearing the large number of buttons on his clothing had a rope attached to a bushel basket in which were packed his supply of extra garments. He told the police the basket was too heavy and for that reason he dragged it along behind him with the aid of the rope over his shoulder.

Schnell was also equipped with a large Hawaiian guitar. In appearance Schnell resembled the pictures of Santa Claus. He wore a very heavy head of gray hair that rippled in curls down over his shoulders, and he also wore a very heavy white beard, and evidently had not shaved or had a haircut in years.

Arraigned later in the morning before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court Schnell said he had a bus ticket for Highland. The judge requested the police to see that Schnell was placed on the 11:30 o'clock bus and sent out of Kingston.

Hornsby Dawson, a negro of 49 Cedar street, charged with public intoxication, was sentenced to three days in jail.

One Killed, Two Hurt In Tavern Explosion

Wynantskill, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—one man was killed, two were injured and many nearby homes were damaged in an explosion which wrecked a tavern in this Rensselaer county village today.

Firemen removed the body of Thomas Cox, 50, South Troy, a bartender, from the fire-swept ruins.

Francis McLoughlin, Troy, a former lightweight boxer who operated the tavern, was pinned in the wreckage and burned critically before being rescued. He is in Troy Hospital.

Donald Bassett, 29, who resides next door to the tavern, was burned seriously while attempting to rescue McLoughlin.

Sheriff Philette Craver theorized seepage of fumes from abandoned gasoline tanks on the tavern property caused the explosion.

Officer Says Aleutians Could Be Retaken

Pearl Harbor, T. H., Aug. 15 (AP)—The high price paid by the Japanese for their toehold on the Rat Islands on the Aleutian chain may well turn out to be a bad bargain, if and when the Americans deem it necessary to oust them.

A naval officer and eyewitness to recent fighting in the fog-shrouded Aleutians today expressed the opinion that "unquestionably" the islands could be retaken if needed.

The officer, whose name cannot be disclosed for reasons of security, said that "if the Japanese try any major attack eastward to the stronghold at Dutch Harbor, they're due for a surprise.

"Right now," he said, "they haven't got much as to a strategic or useful location."

Dummy Fortifications

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Moscow radio broadcast a Stockholm report today saying the Germans were building dummy fortifications along the Norwegian coast in an effort to dissuade the allies from attacking to open a second front. "In the Bergen area, the German engineers in addition to real fortifications have built quite a number of sham ones, repainting antiquated structures and equipping them with dummy guns," the Moscow radio, as heard by CBS, said. "German forces on the coast are greatly reduced. A single infantry regiment is now stationed in the Bergen section. Forces on other sectors of the coast, particularly in the south, have been similarly reduced."

To Be Soldier

OFFICER W. A. KRUM

Policeman William A. Krum is the first member of the Kingston police department to be accepted for service in the armed forces. Policeman Krum was the leader in charge of the group of 99 men who left Kingston Friday morning for an army induction center in Albany, where the men were given a thorough physical examination.

Unofficially it was reported that approximately 20 of the 99 men had been rejected.

Those who passed the physical tests were given a furlough of 14 days each before they are to report to an army training camp.

Officer Krum was appointed a member of the police force on April 1, 1941. He is married and resides with his wife at 192 Mary's avenue. Before he became a member of the police force Officer Krum was manager of the Cities Service station at Franklin street and Broadway. He had been a member of the National Guard for several years before becoming a policeman. Fraternally he is a member of Kingston Lodge of Elks and at the last annual meeting was elected lecturing knight.

Approve Zinc Reclaiming Plan

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—A zinc reclaiming plan under which newspapers and other publications using photo-engravings made of the strategic material may turn it over and over again, has been approved by the War Production Board.

George C. Heikes, chief of the board's zinc branch, estimated that the publications, instead of using 50 per cent of their last year's volume of the metal, to which they were reduced by a recent order, will use only 10 to 15 per cent of new zinc, under the plan. Official modification of the earlier order was expected soon.

Under the new plan the publications' scrap metal will be sent to secondary shelters from which it will emerge in an almost pure state. Then it will be rolled to the proper thickness and again be useful in making engravings and newspaper "cuts."

Heikes said a high percentage of newspaper scrap zinc can be reclaimed.

Didn't Know Why He Killed Family

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 15 (AP)—"I just don't know, boss. I don't know what possessed me," was the only reason a husky, big-footed negro youth could offer, Detective Chief John C. McCarthy said today, for slaying an aged farm couple and two sons.

The chief said Buster Shaw, 20, last night signed a written confession to shooting 65-year-old George Strickland as he hoed his garden, killing Riley, 13, and Wiley, 9, on a log cabin floor, and chasing Strickland's wife into the Piney Woods, where he raped and killed her.

Shaw said he used a Spanish type .38 caliber pistol. He hid out in an old tobacco barn near the scene of his crime at Nahunta, Ga., for a week while bloodhounds and huge posses hunted the South Georgia swamplands for a man with a 13-inch foot.

Out-size footprints at the scene of the August 4 slaying were the strong clue. A negro turpentine worker named Buster Shaw had feet like that. The posses wanted Buster Shaw. But they didn't find him.

The negro rode a freight car into Savannah two days ago and hitched an automobile ride out that night. A Georgia state guard officer on patrol stopped the car, asked for draft registration cards. They weren't forthcoming, so he packed the two occupants off to the Savannah jail.

There the big (six foot, one inch, 190 pound) negro insisted for hours that he was Harry Smith. But to Detective McCarthy and others he looked like Buster Shaw. Finally he admitted he was, slowly told of the crime.

But he couldn't explain why, Chief McCarthy formally docketed him for four murders, ordered a special guard for his cell.

MODENA

Modena, Aug. 15—Mrs. Earl DeWitt of Ardonia was guest of honor at a party held Tuesday evening, given by members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, at the home of Mrs. Floyd Wells in Modena. Others attending were Mrs. Burton Ward, Mrs. Fred Bernard, Mrs. Wilbur Williams, Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck, Mrs. Hallock Harris, Mrs. Lester Arnold, Mrs. Frank Venable, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Mrs. William Doolittle, Mrs. Emory Conklin, Mrs. William Decker. Homemade ice cream, cake and tea were served. Mrs. DeWitt received many useful gifts, and invited guests not attending sent gifts.

A business meeting of the officers of the Modena Home Bureau unit was held at the home of Mrs. Lester Arnold, chairman, Thursday afternoon, when dates were set for various project meetings planned earlier. Attending were: Home demonstration agent, Miss Everice Parsons of Kingston; Mrs. Eber Coy of Ardonia and Mrs. Weygant Courter, Sr.

The Child Study Club met at Mrs. Louis Hyatt's, Thursday afternoon, with only three people in attendance.

The Modena-Ardonia Service Cheer club, organized for the benefit of local boys serving their country, met Thursday evening in the Modena school with the following in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. Weygant Courter, Sr., Mrs. Lester Wager, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Miss Irene Hafcher, Mrs. William Decker, Mrs. Gershom Mount. The special request that parents of service men attend this meeting met with no response. An interesting meeting was conducted, however, with reports of activities meeting with approval. Plans were made to raise funds to increase the treasury, and for the erection of a tablet near the service flag, bearing the names of those from this section, now in the N. S. Army and Navy units. The next meeting of the club members will be Thursday evening, September 10, in the Modena school, the meeting date changed from the second Tuesday evening in the month to the second Thursday.

Mrs. Anna Miller has returned from a visit with her cousin, Mrs. Lizzie Upright in Wallkill.

British Naval Squad Bombards Town of Rhodes

London, Aug. 15 (AP)—A British naval squadron bombarded the town of Rhodes on the Italian island of the same name for 12 minutes early Thursday setting great fires and causing extensive damage, Reuters reported today.

The island lies in the extreme eastern Mediterranean, close to Turkey. It is the largest of the Dodecanese.

A dispatch from John Nixon, a Reuters correspondent with the squadron, said the shelling was accurate and perfectly timed, catching the Italians completely by surprise.

As the squadron steamed away a big fire and numerous smaller ones that sent up columns of black smoke could be seen on the waterfront, Nixon said.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency said the squadron, under Rear Admiral P. L. Vian, carried out the bombardment with the accuracy and perfect timing of a postman delivering the morning mail.

The British warships entered enemy waters and approached the target without being detected before they opened fire.

"Despite efforts of Italian shore batteries and the presence of E-boats, all our ships and aircraft returned without a scratch," the Reuters correspondent wrote. "Co-operation between sea and air forces was perfect."

Exchange Telegraph said the Italian shore batteries did not reply until after several salvoes had left the British guns, and then "their shells came singing over our heads."

The Reuters correspondent, describing the attack, said:

"It must have been Rhodes' brightest night since the war began.

"Orange and gold flame belched from the warships and there was a rumble of thunder as they fired. Bright flashes showed where the shells were exploding and after several minutes there came a new sound. The shore batteries were returning fire on the ships.

"The interval indicated the defenders were taken by surprise but their gunnery was fairly accurate. Several shells whistled over our heads while at least two salvos sent up splashes very close to us.

"For exactly 12 minutes the shells were hurled at shipping in the harbor and targets ashore, the chief of which was a large flour mill.

"Then the warships swept silently away leaving fire and columns of smoke as evidence of their visit. Motor torpedo boats were reported near us but they did not see us. For an hour or more as we raced away, anti-aircraft shells and bullets danced in the sky but we paid little attention. Our part of the night's work completed.

"We had been in enemy waters over two hours but the job went through without a hitch. The only incident came the next morning when one or two enemy aircraft circled around and then headed for home without attacking."

Held on Draft Charge

Frank G. Germick, 32, of 46 Park avenue, Swoyersville, Pa., was brought to the Ulster county jail Friday by an F. B. I. agent following his arrest at Ferndale for violation of the Selective Service Act. He was held for a hearing later before U. S. Commissioner Charles de la Vergne. Germick said he had registered but had gone away in search of work and did not receive his notice. He probably will be returned to his home draft board. Registrants are held responsible for notice of change of address.

Please don't wait for a call from these agencies. Time may be short before the need is almost overwhelming.

White Men Helped

Ticonderoga, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP) — Chief Red Jacket again has beaten off those White Men—but it took white men to help put over the show. More than 2,000 spectators watched Thomas Lonergan portray the gifted 19th century western New York chieftain last night in the 11th annual Ticonderoga Indian pageant. The 110 actors included 25 St. Regis reservation tribesmen.

Among those at the meeting were E. Roland Harriman of Arden, Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb of Garrison, vice president of the Independent committee, John Charles Straton of Warwick, Orange county, another vice president, and John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie, friend of President Roosevelt.

In the Democratic gubernatorial arena, a fifth Tammany Hall leader came out for Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., John P. Larney, acting leader of the middle 12th Assembly District, Manhattan, pledged his three convention delegates to Bennett, whom he described in a statement as "the strongest and best-equipped man for governor of the state."

Previously, former Sheriff Daniel E. Finn, Herbert L. Bruce, Charles H. Hussey and Charles L. Kohler had stepped out on Bennett's side. U. S. Senator James M. Mead, battling Bennett for the nomination, has been endorsed by Rep. Michael J. Kennedy, boss of the 155-vote Tammany delegation.

First break in the Bronx group, led by National Chairman Edward J. Flynn, one of Mead's main backers, came with the announcement that former Alderman William A. Garvey would vote for Bennett.

"Ed Flynn is making the mistake of his life," declared Garvey in announcing his decision. "The Democrats of the Bronx want Bennett as their candidate for governor."

The Democratic state convention will be held next Wednesday in Brooklyn. The Republicans, whose chief candidate, Thomas E. Dewey, apparently is unopposed for the nomination, will convene August 24 in Saratoga.

1,100-Mile Canoe Tour Of New York's Waterways

Walton, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—To prove that modern Americans "are not softies," a 67 year-old explorer has just completed a gruelling 1,100-mile canoe tour of New York's inland waterways.

Admitting he's "a little tired" after paddling 11 rivers and two lakes, running rapids, battling 14 storms and sleeping out 58 nights, Arthur W. North said today he was glad to be home.

North described the journey as a "test to prove Americans are not soft or incapable of surmounting difficulties in the open country."

The trip was made in a 12-foot, flat-bottomed, collapsible and canvas-covered canoe, "The Magellan."

North, who 47 years ago was given two years to live, traversed lakes, rivers and rapids between the Pennsylvania line and the Canadian border, using railroads and buses when unable to make foot portages between waterways.

A fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of England and member of the American Explorers' Club, North visited many historic spots, using same transportation, he said, as his ancestors, who came to Northern New York aboard canoes in 1785.

In the last 12 years, North says he has explored every continent on the globe. The rugged, white-haired adventurer, born in California, was graduated in 1896 from the University of California. An attorney, he once served as Yolo county assemblyman in the California legislature.

North has a son, Robert, in the army, and a daughter, Mary, attending Yale Medical School.

Ft. Knox, Ky., Aug. 14 (Special) —The Armored Force School, where the tens of thousands of technicians for the Army's hard-hitting armored divisions are trained, today had rolled another class of tank mechanics off its fast-rolling human assembly lines. Among the graduates, announced from the offices of Maj. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of the Armored Force, was Private John M. Robinson, son of John Robinson, who lives at 176 O'Neil street. Pvt. Robinson entered the service in March, 1942.

slipped away from observation.

"Later the army did succeed in making contact, but not under as favorable circumstances as they might have found if the response had been earlier."

Army and navy officers in Alaska are now working in closest cooperation, he said.

"The naval command itself has been greatly strengthened with new blood and experience. Communications are better, our bases are rounding rapidly into shape, and all the time I was there I never heard the word 'defense' mentioned once."

Rep. Magnuson who only a few weeks ago was in active service with the navy as a lieutenant commander said he felt the Alaska situation was serious but not alarming, and that the navy had the battle of Alaska and the Aleutians well in hand.

Of the battle in the fog-bound Aleutians, he said:

"It's like two small boys facing each other across a river. Neither one of them has a boat and can't get to the other, so they throw stones. They occasionally hit one another but not enough to put either one out of the fight."

238,000 Slot Machines Are In Operation

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Although pin-ball games and slot machines are illegal in a large part of the United States, the Treasury disclosed today that more than 238,000 are in operation and paying federal taxes.

The count was made in totalling returns from new taxes imposed by Congress last fall of pin-ball and other "coin-operated amusement devices" at the rate of $10 a year and on slot machines and other "coin-operated gaming devices" at the rate of $50 a year. As of June 30, the tax had been paid on 160,894 machines in the pin-ball class and 77,129 in the slot-machine group.

The Treasury is not required to know the local laws involved in operating these machines. The officials, however, have been getting numerous requests from religious and reform organizations for lists of persons paying the taxes in allegedly forbidden territories.

The Treasury has replied in each case that the lists are open to the public in the offices of the various collectors of internal revenue "at the convenience of the collectors."

Every state, the District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii are on the tabulation made public by the Treasury today. New York led in the pin-ball class with 22,143, Wisconsin in the slot machine group with 7,247. Oklahoma is at the bottom of the list, with 33 machines in the pin-ball class and 14 in the slot machine group.

New York had 1,658 slot machines.

Connecticut had 4,667 machines in the pin-ball group and 197 slot machines.

Continue Upstate Raids

Gloversville, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP) —F. B. I. agents conducted 15 raids in Gloversville and Johnstown last night and early today, arresting an Italian alien and seizing eight cameras, guns, ammunition and two short-wave radios. Arthur Cornelius, Jr., Albany F. B. I. agent, said three other persons were ordered to appear for questioning by the United States district attorney's office. The Italian alien, he added, was found in possession of two cameras, a rifle, an automatic pistol and ammunition.

BUYING STAMPS AND BONDS

Some financial institutions in urging people to save their money and buy their war bonds out of current wages and incomes rather than out of money already in the bank, are quoting statements made by President Roosevelt to that effect some time ago.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, the President asserted that in his opinion people should invest current earnings in war bonds and stamps rather than take the money for such investment out of savings accounts or liquidating other investments for the purchase of such securities.

The Chief Executive is quoted as stating at a press conference that there is not much use in taking $1,000 out of a bank, where it is probably serving useful purposes and putting it into bonds. In his seven point program to hold down living costs he stated that he was referring to using current earnings when he said every dime and dollar not needed for vital essentials should be used to buy war bonds and stamps.

Mr. Roosevelt was standing on solid ground when he made this assertion. When a citizen takes money from his savings account and buys stamps or bonds he is not aiding the situation so much as when he buys these highly desirable securities out of his current income. The bank is doubtless using its depositors' money to purchase government securities and the greater the deposits the more the bank can buy. So when the depositor withdraws the money and buys bonds he is not helping the situation to any great extent. But when he buys bonds and stamps to the limit out of his current wage or income he is helping Uncle Sam in two ways and helping himself as well. In the first place he is adding to the government financial resources for carrying on the war. In the second place, by buying securities he is trying to keep down inflation. To use the money for buying luxuries, or semi-luxuries he is only adding to the demand for consumer goods, helping create a shortage and push prices toward inflation. Moreover, he is providing himself with an excellent kind of savings when he buys war bonds and stamps. There is no better saving for the average man, or for anyone else, for that matter.

That is why it helps more to buy bonds and stamps out of current income than to get them from savings drawn from the bank.

BE YOUR OWN FIREMAN

If civilian defense activity is to achieve maximum results, the prevention and control of fire must be stressed at all times. No one knows whether fire bombs will ever rain down from the skies upon our cities, towns, farms and industrial centers. If that does happen—and never forget that it can happen—the very life of this country may depend upon the efficiency of our fire fighters, both professional and volunteer. If it doesn't happen, a public which is trained in the basic principles of fire prevention can be of inestimable service in reducing the vast toll of fires which occur "normally."

It has been said that many communities have relaxed their civilian defense fire training simply because they couldn't obtain as much fire-fighting equipment as they'd like to have. Any community which does that is asking for destruction. It would be very fine if every town could be supplied at once with all the apparatus it wants. But that is obviously impossible. And in the meantime, every community should be preparing volunteers to handle equipment when it comes—and to fight fire in other ways if it doesn't come.

It's just as important to extinguish a fire which starts from a faulty stove, as a fire which is started by an incendiary. And the most important thing of all is to eliminate the causes of fire. The average American home contains many grave hazards which its occupants never think of. The same thing is true of the average place of business. Improperly stored inflammable liquids, accumulations of paper, rags and odds and ends, poorly-maintained heating equipment—such hazards as these cause fires which take hundreds of lives and destroy tens of millions of dollars worth of property each year.

Let every American community, from the smallest to the largest, make up its mind that it will lick its own fire problem. It can be done—and it must be done.

BARRELS FROM SPOONFULS

Half a cup of kitchen drippings seems such a trifling thing, hardly worth carrying to the butcher to be turned into the big can which holds the fat brought in by the other folks on the street. But this war is teaching people the truth of that old Scotch proverb, that "manny a mickle makes a muckle."

America has always known about those millionaires who made their fortunes from the sale of popcorn at five cents a bag, or even from matches at a penny a box. Profits on such sales are often only a fraction of a cent, but multiplied mightily they result in millions of dollars.

When tailors were asked to snip off the cuffs on men's pants, cartoonists made funny pictures about it. But the cuffs on 40,000,000 pairs of pants represent more than 2,000,000 yards of fabric.

The half cup of fat a week may seem trifling, but 40,000,000 half cups is 20,000,000 cups or almost 10,000,000 pounds a week. Probably there are not more than 20,000,000 families in the country who could turn in their half cups. But multiply this 5,000,000 pounds by the 52 weeks in a year. Does the half cup help? It does. So does every tin can.

UNNECESSARY LETTERS

Donald Nelson is trying to simplify record keeping and reduce unnecessary letter writing. In some ways this is the biggest job that even he has undertaken. He could certainly sympathize with the Duke of Wellington, the victor of Waterloo, who wrote fervently: "If I attempted to answer the mass of futile corerspondence that surrounds me, I should be debarred from all serious business of campaigning." General Auchinleck, British commander-in-chief in the Near East, was so impressed by this utterance that he sent a copy of it to all officers at his headquarters.

Plenty of people could profit by thinking over this remark of the Duke of Wellington.

There's no sense in anything any more. Burlesque was supposed to be dead, and now it comes back in New York at $3.30 a seat. But do the old customers come back?

TREATMENT OF KIDNEY STONES

For many years, where a patient had a heavy feeling in the upper right hand part of the abdomen and the X-rays showed stones in the gall bladder, it was considered advisable to remove the stones, and drain or remove the gall bladder.

Today, as it is known that stones are present in a large percentages of individuals over forty years of age, no attempt is made to remove the stones or have the patient undergo any form of operation unless he or she is having acute attacks of gall stone colic. The majority of individuals with gall stones do not know they have them.

While kidney stones are less common, the fact that they are present is considered a more serious condition than having gall stones, nevertheless physicians and surgeons today are not having as large a percentage undergo operation as was the case a few years ago. Thus, in a series of 125 cases reported in the Journal of Urology, Drs. J. Hoy Sanford and Willard T. Barnhart, St. Louis, only 17 (13.6 per cent) underwent operation, the other 108 cases being successfully treated by use of sounds to stretch the small tubes carrying urine to the bladder, thus allowing stones to pass into bladder and then out of the body. Naturally if stones are very large, they must be removed by surgery.

"In the silent unilateral stone (stone in one kidney only) when no symptoms are present and the other kidney is normal, surgery is advisable."

Why must this "silent" stone, causing no pain, obstruction or other symptoms, be removed when gall stones are allowed to remain when they are causing no symptoms?

This stone is removed because it has been found that such a stone, if not removed, may quietly kill the kidney. If, however, the patient is over 60 years of age, the kidney is not usually removed as long as it remains silent and no symptoms arise.

When the stone has left the kidney and is located in the tube (ureter) carrying the urine to the bladder, operation is delayed as so many of these stones pass downward without the help of surgery. Operation is performed, however, when obstruction, blocking of urine, or infection occurs. Fortunately, by means of dyes, X-rays, comparison of amount of urine passed by each kidney, the urologist can decide whether delay or immediate operation is the best treatment.

AMERICA'S ANSWER! By Bressler

F.B.I. Hints for Prevention of Sabotage Here

Twelve suggestions for preventing sabotage, made to the Commerce and Industry Association of New York, Inc., by P. E. Foxworth, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation made public today by Neal Dow Becker, president of the Association.

Mr. Foxworth urged care in the seleciton of personnel; fingerprinting of employes; careful guarding of plans, specifications, secret formulae, working models, etc.; a check of the technical references of prospective key men; a strong staff of alert guards; education of employees in sabotage prevention and the avoidance of trespassing by the use of strict means of identification of all employees.

Mr. Foxworth, who is one of the busiest men in the metropolitan area these days, has been the source of much front-page news through his revelations of spy activities, especially the sensational roundup by his men of the saboteurs who landed on the east coast from German submarines, makes the following suggestions:

Use care in the selection of personnel, particularly of key men. Get complete information about personal history and habits, families; find out whether the prospective employe has any financial interests, relatives, home or property in a foreign country. Under threat of harm to relatives, or property confiscation, Germans seek aid first from those who have interests under German control abroad.

Fingerprints offer a reliable means for checking up those who have bad records. Frequently fingerprints have disclosed that those with espionage and other criminal records were seeking new employment in war production.

Watch for any change in the financial condition and spending Ihabits of employes. This may be significant, for our enemies are always trying to purchase information.

Encourage "Don't Talk" campaigns among employes. Information of value to the enemy is often divulged innocently by talkative workers. In other instances it is purchased from gullible or disloyal individuals.

Guard documents and plans carefully. Plans are copied, working models and finished products are often photographed by enemy agents. Set up checks and time schedules that will make this impossible in your plant.

Check technical references of prospective skilled employes. Accept none on their face value. They are sometimes faked, even to the extent of the presentation of "achievement story" clippings from newspapers which prove to be non-existent, or from technical journals which have never been published. University diplomas should be verified by the universities purported to have issued them.

Where a company has plants in several cities, personnel data should be exchanged between plants. Employes discharged for cause from one plant often go to another plant of the same company and obtain similar work. While they may not be intentional saboteurs, they cause loss of valuable time and vital production.

Have adequate vaults for the protection of specifications, secret formulae, and other important documents. Use only the most trusted employes as custodians of such vaults and guard their combinations with extreme care.

Maintain a strong staff of alert guards. The source of power is ordinarily among the most vulnerable points. Protect it and other vital points. Guards should be trained to watch for physical acts of sabotage, such as arson, explosions of dynamite and ammunition, and deliberate damage to machinery. Only carefully chosen and well identified people should be permitted to approach the vital points of your plant.

Guard against trespassers through the use of badges, written passes, or identification of employes themselves. Examine these credentials carefully when they are presented.

If you have reason to suspect thta any person is engaged in disloyal activities, report it to the FBI.

Make your employes sabotage-prevention conscious. Let them understand that if there is any delay or stoppage of work due fires, breakdown, or other causes, it will result in delaying production with consequent loss both to owners and employes.

Wins Contest Prize

Twenty-year-old Sergeant Jack D. O'Brien, attached to the Public Relations Office of the Chico, Cal., Army Flying School, hit the jack pot in the Elks War Commission's "Write 'Em a Letter" cartoon contest taking first grand prize of $300. The contest jury, composed of Cartoonist Robert "Believe It or Not" Ripley; Joseph V. Connelly, president of King Features Syndicate; New York Sun Columnist H. I. Phillips; Douglas Borgstedt, feature editor of the Army's new overseas newspaper, "Yank," and Ed Sullivan, columnist of the New York Daily News, made their selections at the New York Museum of Science and Industry. Second prize of $200 went to Private Bill Mauldin of the 45th Division and third prize of $100 went to a Navy man, Apprentice Seaman Robert G. Woodcock of the Naval Training Station, San Diego, Cal.

The prize winners were selected from 50 cartoons submitted by enlisted personnel of the Army and Navy from camps and bases all over the country and from Pearl Harbor, Puerto Rico, the Canal Zone and Bermuda.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

A dollar would stretch farther in the years at the turn of the century for in those days the young fellow with that amount of money on his person could enjoy the social whirl in Kingston and still have a cash balance on hand at the close of the evening's festivities.

Many a young fellow on a Wednesday night would take the best girl for a trolley ride uptown and attend the Bijou Theatre on Wall street, and after the show enjoy and ice cream soda and then ride home on the trolley.

Trolley rides in those days cost a nickel, entrance to the movies was a dime, and an ice cream soda cost five cents. In other words the youth would wind up the evening's pleasures with a half buck left of the original dollar.

And speaking of the Bijou Theatre I recall that it was destroyed by fire in 1916 and when the building was rebuilt after the fire the site of the theatre was used as woman's clothing wear house. It was operated by a man named Lovin.

One of the most famous artists in the days when the phonograph was all the rage was Ada Jones, and I recall the time she made a personal appearance at the Bijou where she drew crowded houses during her stay, and sang many of the songs she had made popular on the phonograph.

Older readers will also recall Eva Fay, the mind reader, who for some years made an annual visit to Liscomb's, now the Orpheum Theatre, on lower Broadway. Eva always drew a large attendance at the theatre when she played a week's stand here.

In those days—as there are today—many people believed in mind reading and would eagerly write out questions on blank slips of paper handed them by the ushers. These slips would then be collected by the ushers and placed in a large box in full view of the audience at all times.

Eva would then appear on the stage and permit herself to be blindfolded and then proceed to answer the questions asked.

Unfolding the leaves of the city's history in 1904 I recall that was the year that Judge Alton B. Parker of Rosemount, Esopus, was the Democratic candidate for president, but met defeat at the hands of Theodore Roosevelt, the Republican candidate.

Many will recall when Roosevelt spoke at political rallies in Kingston, and I know a number of us youngsters would watch him closely to see when he would produce the "big stick" with which he was always pictured in the newspaper cartoons of that day.

Terrible Teddy as he was also dubbed by his opponents was famous for his smile, and for the savage verbal attacks he made on those who opposed him. A rally addressed by him was always sure of being a hot and peppy political meeting.

One of the last times I heard him in a political campaign was in the days of the Bull Moose movement when he spoke in the Orpheum Theatre.

Cattle Get Measles

Prevalence of measles among cattle at Pietersburg, South Africa, has resulted in condemning many steers and in a shortage of meat in the municipality. Butchers are compensated for their losses, but have asked drastic action of the Pietersburg council because other animals brought into the municipal abattoir have sustained the disease and have had to be condemned. They fear they will be forced to close their meat stores if the condition continues.

Keep our boys tiptop by putting the U. S. O. drive over the top.

Formula To Prevent Huge Profits on War Contracts Is Not Yet Forthcoming

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 15 — Nearly everybody who knows anything about the problem of war contracts wants to see a formula adopted that will prevent any contractor from making huge profits but, strange as it may seem, the formula that will accomplish such an objective and still will not destroy all incentive is not yet forthcoming.

Various schemes have been suggested. The original plan for a flat 8 per cent profit was tried in the Vinson Act which has since been repealed. The chief objection was that bidders could make too much profit on a contract involving a huge volume whereas they might lose money on a small contract. With the government spending tens of billions, even a one per cent profit on a big order might mean too much profit for any one company.

Congress subsequently thought the way out was to order "re-negotiation," a process whereby contracts are revised periodically as the War or Navy Departments observe excessive profits. This, however, is a difficult job for the government agencies to do. On the one hand they find business men worried about reopening old contracts and about the problem of making accurate estimates of future costs. On the other hand, they find the government officials concerned as to how to deal with two competing companies, one of which is more efficient or more experienced than the other, and the second of which companies needs a higher price in order to cover its necessarily higher costs.

The War and Navy Departments would frankly be subsidizing one company against another but, it is argued, this is necessary in order to get all kinds of plants into production.

On Capitol Hill, Senator George and others are advocating a repeal of the "re-negotiation" provisions of the present law on the ground that they produce too many perplexities and tax difficulties impeding the war effort and that instead there should be an overall limitation on total profits rather than on any particular contract. It is suggested by Mr. George, who is chairman of the all-powerful Senate finance committee, that the limitation be imposed in the form of a percentage on capital invested, say, for instance, a 6 per cent return on total capital.

To this the objection is offered that small companies with inadequate capitalization of a permanent nature would be penalized and would not wish to undertake the large orders now being offered them.

Plainly, there is a school of thought in the war and navy departments, the Maritime Commission and the treasury which believes that a flexible formula taking into account all possible methods, included the idea of a six per cent return on capital invested, is the proper approach so that each case may be handled on its merits and a sort of general levelling off of profits attained.

It might be thought that the excess profit taxes of 90 per cent would take care of any excessive profits but here again, when a large volume of dollars is involved the tax rates still make possible some freakish or inordinate results which, it is felt, are bound to provoke public criticism.

One thing is clear—the war effort can be dangerously slowed down unless some formula is soon devised not so much to retain an incentive for profit-making but actually to assure contractors against loss through the many arbitrary decisions or rulings which can be made after contracts have been fully consummated and the materials and labor paid for, as a large chunk of cost items are disallowed a year or two later.

Industry simply cannot be operated if the cost or price figures are not stabilized before contracts are too far gone to be changed. The only way is to put a limit on the time during which re-negotiation must be completed and this presents an administrative task of fantastic proportions. Possibly some boards inside the War and Navy Departments can evolve a basic set of principles and re-negotiate only those contracts where an apparently unreasonable or truly excessive profit has been earned by the contractor, leaving the others to the excess profit tax rates and the treasury department rules and regulations concerning proper business deductions whereby it could be determined whether improper expenditures have been made under the heading of "costs."

The problem is, of course, complicated by the fact that there are many new products being manufactured for the army and navy for which no commercial market has existed in the past. The first few thousand units made usually means a high cost but as experience is gained and a larger volume is produced, a lower price to the government becomes possible.

War and Navy Department officials and many members of Congress agree that business men themselves have voluntarily called attention to these economies and this in turn has led to re-negotiation. The spirit of all concerned is to eliminate excessive profits but, as stated at the outset, a practicable formula is hard to find.

"The Sundowners," by Ward Dorrance.

The summer has not produced much fiction as good as Ward Dorrance's "The Sundowners"—if you can call the book fiction. Mr. Dorrance's first book was written while he was an associate profess of French at the University of Missouri, and it was a narrative about the land and people and habits of Central Missouri. The new book is about the same things, but it is in the general mould of a novel, and that is about all you can say in the way of description.

It is the story of a little boy named Noel who is brought up on a high bluff farm not far from Jefferson City. Before Noel is old enough to understand anything about the business, his father has hanged himself; his mother is also not long for this world. Noel has about him his grandfather and grandmother, two or three of the Missouri breed of negroes (a type and a quality not often duplicated out of the state)—and the land and the things of the land.

He grows up shy, and yet not rootless, because he too is rooted in the land. The turning seasons are as much a part of him as his own daily routine; the difficulty is that he somehow does not carry over into his own life what he knows to be true of all other life. He is not exactly remote, and not precisely afraid. Yet the inevitable pairings-off which come with adolescence do not seem quite to apply to him, or to Laura. Nor does he fall easily into the boy-pattern.

So it became necessary for the family to do something about him, and this turned out to be a job in St. Louis. Noel's impulse, when he arrived at the Union Station, was to live there until his money ran out, and then to start walking. He did not care where he walked. But this he did not do; he really tried to work, until one morning he simply hopped a freight, and a few hours later turned up in the woods near his home.

The story is good enough (and there is more to it than this). But what Mr. Dorrance wants you to understand is the feel of dirt in your hands, the smell of hayfields and barns, the rickety walk of a new-born calf. And you will understand, too, unless you were born to the subway and the Automat.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—With the Army in the Capital:

The V-Mail (transmission of letters to overseas soldiers by transferring them to microfilm) has proved so popular that the Army has placed it on a two-way basis to the United Kingdom, the Middle East, Hawaii and Australia.

In the first six weeks of the one-way service, the Army postal service handled 250,000 V-Mail letters.

A.P.O. officials have had to pause in their delivery of V-Mail to warn senders: (1) addresses must be correct on the V-Mail forms obtainable at all postoffices; and (2) of all things, women must not imprint kisses on letters to the soldiers, "since the lipstick may blur the writing making it illegible on the photographic reproduction."

• • •

When the Army announced that it was transferring its pigeon breeding and training center from Fort Monmouth, N. J., to Camp Crowder, Mo., a couple of interesting facts came out about the Army's feathered Mercurys.

In the blood strains of carriers flying for the U. S. A. in World War II are those of "Always Faithful," a Hall of Fame award winner in the pigeon world who 716 miles from Chattanooga to Fort Monmouth at almost 47 miles an hour; and "General Mauborgne" who set an all-time speed record by flying 600 miles from Kansas City to Fort Sam Houston in less than 14 hours—with no tail winds.

It's the little things that win a war. For years the Army has been shipping its "G.I." (government issue) cans in nests of six cans, crated—and that's the way they've been going with and to the forces overseas.

Then along comes some unnamed hero of the loading lines, and with an eye on those sub-sinkings, works out three new "packs" for the 10 to 32 gallon cans that are used for everything from garbage to washing dishes. As a result, nested cans are now packed with sugar, flour, rice and dry produce—the result, space savings up to 47 per cent.

• • •

When the Army air forces announced recently, and with some justifiable pride, that their accident rate was 68 per cent lower than 12 years ago and 10 per cent below the 1930-40 10-year average, they didn't tell all the story.

Some of the flying school safety records have been phenomenal. For instance, at Chico Field, Calif., student pilots have flown the equivalent of 500 times around the equator without a single fatal accident. At Craig Field, Alabama, an advanced flying school, the pilots clicked off a total distance of 1,179 times the earth's equatorial circumference with only one minor accident; and 23 million miles without any accident due to mechanical causes.

This last is important because not only were the pilots trainees, but according to the National Aeronautics Association, which gathers the records on such things, the ground crew mechanics also were students.

Where Japanese Tried Their Tricks With Cameras

INTERNED—Japanese ordered to leave the Pacific coast of Mexico dine out-of-doors on a Japanese-owned ranch near Mexico City, where numbers have been interned by the Mexican government for the duration of the war. Unguarded, they are permitted to work on farms near their new home. Others have been sent to Guadalajara, also well inland.

Wide World Features Writer

Mazatlan, Mexico—Some idea of Japanese military preparations at this—the most strategic port between San Diego and Panama—lies before me in the form of a panoramic picture.

It is of postcard depth but about two feet long. For giving a detailed picture of a seaport, its buildings, islands, bays and defenses, it is the most complete thing imaginable.

At the lower right corner appears the legend, "Fot. V. Tokyo." This evidently mean "fotografia" (photograph) via Tokyo, and is equivalent to our own required labeling of foreign-made goods. I bought it from a street hawker for the equivalent of an American nickel.

In it you can clearly pick out the great market which is the nerve center of the place, you can travel every main street, spot every business building and determine the bays, beaches and islands of this broken harbor.

If this were simply a business venture to sell nickel reproductions to a trickle of tourists it was a bold one. In the light of events it probably would be recognized as a military picture of prime importance, with the Japanese "paying part of the freight" by selling it back to peddlers.

The headquarters of General Lazaro Cardenas is out of the picture, but at the time it was taken he could scarcely have taken up his war-time command of west coast defenses.

The fact that he made this his base of operations shows its importance.

The surrounding country is largely, but not entirely, desert. To the north it is nearly 800 miles airline to the American border. There is no auto road through the great deserts of Sinaloa and Sonora and the sole transportation is via the Southern Pacific of Mexico.

However, Mazatlan affords access to the great inland railroad center of Northern Mexico, Torreon.

In enemy hands, it also would dominate the 700-mile-long Gulf of California. On the map this looks pretty serious, for the gulf leads right up to the Colorado river, the wealthy Imperial valley of California and hence to Los Angeles.

But army officers I have talked with do not take this back-door invasion very seriously. The land on both sides is almost completely desolate. The Colorado is not navigable for large vessels and it has a tremendous tidal bore which makes operation of small craft difficult and dangerous.

There are only fragments of roads stretching down into the desert from American border towns and they have been the scenes of many tragedies of heat and thirst.

However, as long as 10 years ago there was an active fishing colony at LaBomba, 60 miles south of Mexicali. For a time, Americans who could get their trucks over the desert trail did a thriving business buying gulf sea bass six feet long or so for 10 cents apiece.

All the fishermen were Japs.

To Be Preacher

REV. J. MUILENBURG

The Rev. John Muilenburg, assistant minister of the Fair Street Reformed Church, will be the preacher at the out-door union service Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the yard of the First Reformed Church, corner of Fair and Main streets.

The Rev. Mr. Muilenburg, whose topic will be "The Ecumenical Church," is planning to leave shortly for Berkeley, Cal., where he will study the Chinese language in preparation for work in the mission field in China.

The Rev. Oscar Palmer of the A.M.E. Church will preside at this service, and special music will be under the direction of Mrs. William S. Eltinge, organist of the Fair Street Church.

In case of inclement weather these services are held in the chapel of the First Reformed Church.

Annual Carnival To Be Held at Eddyville

Saturday evening, August 22, the annual carnival will be held at Eddyville on Cutler's Hill under the auspices of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Eddyville, and Holy Name Church, Wilbur. This gala carnival is one of the high spots of the vacation season and is always looked upon as a very fitting and enjoyable climax to the vacation period. Former parishioners and friends of both the Eddyville and Wilbur Churches make this affair an occasion to visit their old parish and renew acquaintances of long standing. The customary carnival setting, decorations and dress will predominate with dancing and entertainment to suit both old and young. In the event of rain, the affair will be held the following night, Sunday, August 23.

Father McCabe and the committee extend a cordial invitation to all former parishioners and friends to spend this one night of the year amongst old friends.

Seek Place to Fight

London, Aug. 15 (AP)—The fighting French press service said today that 300 French men and women, who escaped from Martinique have arrived at the nearby British islands of Dominica and St. Lucia to await transportation to a place "where we can fight." Most of the men fled in small boats at night and the last three to arrive were picked up by British fishermen 10 miles off St. Lucia, the news service said.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Essential

Richmond, Ind.—Air raid warden candidates are learning fast.

A question at a recent examination asked what equipment a warden must have.

Prominent in the list of one man's response was:

"A damned good memory."

Sole-Mates

Williamsport, Pa.—Out from the dollar day shopping crowd around the shoe counter limped two women, each holding one shoe —mates.

Neither would give up her share of the bargain, and both sat down to wait.

Four hours later the women were still sitting, glaring. So the manager took the shoes off sale and replaced the regular price tag.

The ladies left.

It Was All So Real!

Durango, Colo.—Eddie Edwards dreamed he was in a truck running wild down the highway, and he jumped.

(End of dream).

A bus picked him up and returned him to the truck in which he'd been riding when he fell asleep. He wasn't seriously injured.

Tribal Tribulations

Gallup, N. M. — Share-the-wagon and share-the-big-bass-horn plans were wartime highlights of the 21st annual intertribal Indian ceremony.

Families in many tribes banded together for the buckboard-wagon ride to conserve transportation equipment.

And whites, for the first time, joined the Indians' ceremonial band. The war had cut the redskin roster from 45 to 20 pieces.

Nice Work

Oxnard, Calif.—Laborers came and went so fast on a federal building project that officials got busy and figured out why.

The workers, who must drive quite a distance, were eligible for recapped tires, and many were working just long enough to get them.

Things are different now.

Hopper Whoppers

Grand Coulee, Wash. — Folks who have watched grasshoppers eat up their victory gardens and mow the library lawn clear down to the roots swear it's no joke.

New sheets John Lawson hung up to bleach were chewed to ruins.

Seams were eaten from silk stockings.

At one home, the insects entered an open door and ate the lace off the curtains.

K. of C. Important Meeting Will Be Held Monday

Lecturer Robert A. Donnarumma has announced that many important items of business will be presented at the meeting of Kingston Council Knights of Columbus to be held Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

It is expected that Faithful Navigator Frank Reis and Faithful Captain Thomas Lodge, as representatives of the fourth degree assembly, will have important announcements concerning the clambake to be held on August 30. Included in the ticket committee are William F. Lechive, Allen A. Baker, Edmund O'Reilly, Edward Cloonan, Andrew Gilday, Frank Reis, Jr., Michael Abdallah, Joseph Stoudt and Thomas Lodge as chairman.

The representatives of the fourth degree assembly will also present to the council the problem of transportation for the annual West Park orphanage outing, which it is hoped will take place on September 3, despite gas rationing.

WAVES Going to Do Man-Sized Jobs

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—Those W. A. V. E. S. are going to do man-sized jobs, but the masculine touch ends there.

Lieut. Comm. Mildred H. McAfee, chief of the Women's Naval Volunteers, said yesterday the Navy means to make the W. A. V. E. S. feminine—not just in name but also in looks.

Their uniforms were designed by Mainbocher, American-born stylist who created the Duchess of Windsor's wedding gown.

Underdress will be left to the discretion of each member, Comm. McAfee said, adding there would be no ban on make-up.

She said the outfits would be "becoming and functional" navy-blue tailored suits worn with defense blue shirts. Hats will have interchangeable blue and white tops and "havelocks" for rainy days.

Only the shade of the stockings remains unchosen—they'll be either cotton or lisle.

In summer, the W. A. V. E. S. will dress in white, like their brothers in the service.

Weather Turns Sultry

Close, sultry weather gripped Kingston on Friday as rain fell at intervals throughout the day. The official city hall thermometer recorded a high of 90 degrees in the afternoon. The lowest temperature recorded yesterday was 70 degrees during the early morning. Rain fell in Kingston Thursday and Friday and the total precipitation, according to the city engineer's records, was .24 of an inch for the two days, bringing the total precipitation for the month to 1.40 inches.

Promoted

For his outstanding work in Adjutant General's Section, Headquarter 89th Infantry Division, T/gr. 4, Alexander Sternhell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Sternhell, 43 Clinton avenue, Kingston, was promoted to the grade of Technician Grade 3 by his commanding officer on August 7, 1942.

Hit East Anglian Area

London, Aug. 15 (AP)—Nazi raiders scattered fire and explosive bombs over the East Anglian area in the hours before dawn today while enemy long-range guns on the French coast lobbed half a dozen salvos of shells across the Dover strait. The German radio said Ipswich was the main bomb target and reported fires and explosions on the waterfront. The British said merely that small groups of enemy raiders, under cover of low clouds, dropped thousands of incendiaries on south coast and East Anglian towns but caused little damage.

U. S. Planes in Desert

Cairo, Aug. 15 (AP)—The participation of United States army fighter pilots in combat over the western desert was announced today as the British disclosed that at least 10—probably more—Axis planes were shot down during the enemy attack on a big Mediterranean convoy this week. The United States fighter pilots went into action with the R.A.F. yesterday amid an intensification of air fighting since Thursday.

Sees Spain on Side of Axis

Mexico City, Aug. 15 (AP)—Spain's quick entry into the war on the side of the Axis powers was forecast today by Diego Martinez Marrio, one-time president of the Spanish republican legislature who still is regarded by many of his fellow refugees as the legal head of the Spanish state. Should his forecast be fulfilled, Martinez Marrio declared he would attempt the formal establishment of a Spanish republican government-in-exile in Mexico and seek its active alignment with the United Nations.

Nazi Ship Construction

Moscow, Aug. 15 (AP)—Tass, official Soviet news agency, quoted diplomatic circles in Lisbon today as saying that the Germans had ordered construction started on a 7,000-ton cruiser, seven submarines and two destroyers at dockyards in unoccupied France. (Since the entire Atlantic coast of France is under German occupation, the reference to unoccupied France would mean the Mediterranean. The French have a large naval base at Toulon.)

On to Victory

When the storekeepers say to me: "There'll be no more of this or that,
No silken hose, no fine clothes, next year you'll wear this year's hat!"
I smile and say: "Why, that's no price,
Think what our boys will sacrifice!"

So if we're minus gas and tires, and sugar, spice and other things,
We'll work the more with what is left until the bell of freedom rings.
And even then we shall not quit,
But keep the lamp of freedom lit!

—Amy E. Waters.

Cowboy—Do you prefer an English saddle or a Western?

Dude Rancher—What's the difference?

Cowboy—The Western saddle has a horn.

Dude Rancher—Then I guess an English will be all right—I don't expect to do any riding in heavy traffic.

If being restricted to one lump of sugar to each pint of gasoline will win the war—we are definitely for it.

Husband (looking over household accounts)—What is this item of $3 for overhead expenses?

Wife—Oh, that's a new umbrella I bought, dear. I left my old one on a bus.

For safety's sake write down the serial number of your tires, in case they were stolen you would have a chance to reclaim them. Also write your name and license number in ink, across your federal auto stamp.

Man (to neighbor)—Yes, my wife has left me. She ran away with another man in my car.

Friend — Good heavens, man! Not your car with the good tires?

Beggar—Spare a dime for a poor man who has been reduced to beggary.

Man—But I see you actually have a car of your own.

Begger—Yes, friend, that is the reason I have been reduced to beggary.

Turning the Tables

Dad has borrowed Junior's bike, mother has his skates;
And while his parents speed about Junior fumes and waits.
When they save on family tires, who's the injured one?
Junior makes the sacrifice, his parents have the fun.

Eleanor Penick.

Genealogist—I've got a very distasteful job before me, Mrs. Newrich employed me to look up her family tree, and I've got to inform her that one of her relatives was electrocuted!

Friend—Oh, don't worry about that. Just write that he 'occupied the chair of applied electricity at one of our public institutions.'

The more bonds you buy the more planes will fly.

Daughter—Did you hear, Dad, they have just caught the biggest hotel thief in Chicago?

Dad—What hotel did he run?

The able bodied man who does not have a job now is either not qualified or doesn't want to work.

Father—Who broke the chair in the parlor last night?

Daughter—It just collapsed, all of a sudden, father, but neither one of us was hurt.

Harold—Do you smoke?
Rachael—No, I don't smoke.
Harold—Do you drink?
Rachael—No, I don't drink.
Harold—Do you neck?
Rachael—No, I don't neck.
Harold—Well, then what do you do?
Rachael—I tell lies.

SAVING WAYS

Grandma knew sleeping accommodations for baby's first few months needn't be expensive. Think what you can do with a luggage rack and a simple laundry basket. Simply add a can of white paint and a few yards of ruffled net to make a darling bassinet.

Children don't need so many changes of clothes if mother launders twice a week instead of once. Substantial savings are made this way because children grow so quickly, they rarely "get the wear" out of their clothes.

Local retailers are cutting down on deliveries to save tires and gas. Help them be patriotic and carry small parcels. Good roomy shopping bags are a new fashion trend. Some of them roll up and fit in your handbag.

If window shades are stained, faded, or dirty beyond cleaning, take them down, and have them reversed so that the lower section most often exposed is the part that stays rolled up at the top.

Strike Blamed On Snub

Because neither the Prime Minister nor the Minister of Mines in Canberra, Australia, replied to their telegrams promptly the miners of the Aberdare Central Colliery in New South Wales refused to go back to work. Originally the strike was called when the men declined to link their mine with a neighboring mine for protection in case of an enemy raid.

All Bring Greetings

A man with a price on his head was among representatives of all walks of the military service who appeared before the General Assembly at Edinburgh, Scotland, to extend greetings from friends and allies. The wanted man was a tall young Norwegian, a chaplain in the Royal Norwegian Navy. The land, sea and air forces were represented.

Aviators Needed For 'Ferry' Duty

Pilots With Few Hours in Air Will Pass

Private pilots with as few as 125 flying-hours are sought by the Navy for instructor or ferry duty, the Naval Aviation Cadet Board, Third Naval District, revealed today in sending out an appeal for commercial or private flyers, including pilots of lighter-than-air craft.

To sign up trained aviators in its ever-expanding war-time program, the Navy is offering commissions commensurate with their age and experience to those pilots with suitable qualifications.

Primarily, the appeal is for holders of commercial pilots' licenses or private flyers with more than 300 hours in planes of 100 horsepower or more. These must be active in aviation and have logged more than 100 certified pilot hours within the 12 months before applying. Age limits are from 19 to 40.

In the case of private pilots with a minimum of 125 hours, who show suitable qualifications to be naval officers and can pass the Navy physical examination, the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board will arrange for advanced flight training under the Civil Aeronautics Authority. In this category, applicants must be between 19 and 40, preferably under 33. While taking the advanced civilian pilot training course, they will be commissioned in the Naval Reserve but will remain on inactive duty until they have completed the course.

All classes of pilots accepted under the program will be ordered to Pensacola, Fla., or Corpus Cristi, Texas, for a Navy refresher flight-training course and indoctrination in Navy methods of instruction or ferry work.

Candidates may obtain information by writing to the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, 120 Broadway, New York.

Real Estate Men Oppose Measure Prohibiting Fees

Real estate boards of New York state are up in arms over passage by the House of Representatives of a bill (H.R. 7304) to prohibit all contingent fees in connection with government contracts, it was stated today by George L. Long, Brooklyn, president of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards.

Letters of protest urging its amendment have been sent by the association to Senator David I. Walsh, chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee before which hearings will soon be held on the measure. Letters have also been sent to New York state senators asking their cooperation in amending the bill.

"The bill as it is now drawn," said Mr. Long, "is so broad that it would probably prevent the payment of commissions to real estate men for the selling and leasing of real property for or to the government."

H. R. 7304 was rushed through the House following disclosure of huge fees having been paid by manufacturers to certain "sharpshooters" for assistance in obtaining government contracts.

Mr. Berens gave the charge to the pastor.

Poor Eat Locusts

Roast locusts have proved a welcome addition to the diet of meat-starved laborers in French Morocco. In the native bazaars of Casablanca they have been sold for two cents a pound. The locust plague swept up from the Sahara recently, doing much damage to crops. Swarms darkened the skies of southern Morocco for several consecutive days. The influx was a boon to the poorer natives in the extreme southern districts who always are on the verge of famine.

Tanks Prizes In Drive

War tanks are "prizes" in a savings drive in Britain—a light tank for a 20 per cent increase, a medium for 25, and a heavy for 30 per cent. It is reported in London that districts with a population of 250,000 will have their name on 25 tanks, and others in proportion down to 5,000 population with one tank.

Children Injured In 20-Foot Fall

Four-Year-Old Girl and Brother Are Hurt

Colline, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hutton of 23 Post street, was injured in a 20-foot fall from a rear second story porch at the family home at 5:20 o'clock Friday afternoon, and was removed to the Kingston Hospital where it was found she had suffered concussion of the brain, and was bruised about the body.

Her brother, two-year-old Joseph, Jr., also fell at the same time, but escaped serious injury as he alighted on top his sister as she struck the pavement below.

At the hospital this morning it was stated that the little girl's condition was slightly improved.

From the story as gathered by the police the two children were playing on the rear porch as the mother was busy getting dinner ready. The little girl climbed up on top of a toy china closet close to the porch railing. In some manner she lost her balance and toppled over the railing. She had her brother clasped by the hand and he also fell with her.

The boy was also taken to the hospital where it was found he had suffered minor bruises and later he was returned to his home.

Work of Ralph K. Forsyth Included in Verse Book

Ralph Kay Forsyth, 41 Pearl street, Kingston, is one of the authors whose work is published in "The Voice of Freedom," a 600-page book of poems and lyrics just published. This is a volume which speaks for all Americans, for all freedom-loving people in this war crisis. As such, it is a definite contribution to national morale and the war effort.

Through publication of this book may be found the song of victory for which the United Nations have been waiting. Thousands of authors in every part of the country competed for a place in this volume. Many of these are writers who have been published in other important publications and magazines and some of them are authors of books of their own. To have won a place in this volume is therefore an important literary achievement. At a later date, a similar volume may be prepared by the same publishers, The Haven Press, 55 W. 42nd street, New York, and writers who are interested in competing for a place in the new book are invited to write to the publishers for a copy of the rules of competition.

so as to strike at Rommel before aid reaches him.

Thus the Royal Air Force daily scans the sea. So thorough is this reconnaissance work that the airmen even photograph shipping in enemy harbors regularly, and by comparing pictures of the same port day by day they can tell should a ship be moved. If a vessel is missing, the R. A. F. notifies British naval vessels, and starts on a hunt for the enemy ship. The chances are that it is headed across to Africa, and the chances are very fair, too, that a British bomb or shell will send it to the bottom.

Enemy convoys must be spotted and destroyed before they reach their destination, for once ships get into harbor a large part of their cargo is likely to be taken ashore, even though the vessels themselves are damaged or sunk. Consequently the constant effort of the R. A. F. is to catch enemy shipping in mid-Mediterranean to be dealt with either by warplanes or warships, or both.

Should the British lose Malta it would permit the Axis to move shipping across the Mediterranean to Africa with comparative ease and Allied vessels would have difficulty in sailing this great thoroughfare.

Legion Urged to Be on Alert for Fifth Columnists

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—New York's American Legion was urged yesterday to be on the alert for fifth columnists and saboteurs and told that the nation needs "a good kick in the pants."

"It's a tough job drumming it into folks' heads," John Sullivan, St. Albans, Vt., National Vice-Commander, Eastern Region, declared, "that such a thing is possible as losing this war."

Asserting there is "too much complacency," he added, "it's time to get wide awake and go full speed ahead on the home front."

The closing session of the 24th annual convention witnessed the election of Arthur G. Bouton, Scarsdale, as new state commander, succeeding Jacob Ark, Rochester.

Bouton, a member of the Westchester County War Council, served abroad as a captain with the 303rd Engineers, 78th Division, in the last war.

Asking the Legion's 99,463 members for help in "smoking out" saboteurs, Lee R. Penington, Chevy Chase, Md., an FBI agent, asserted that from Pearl Harbor to August 1, the F. B. I. had searched 15,675 dwellings of Axis nationals.

He said a total of 10,217 arrests had been made in addition to the confiscation of large quantities of arms and ammunition.

Scores 7th Straight Win

CARL HUBBELL

Old square pants, King Carl Hubbell, long the meal-ticket for Manager Bill Terry, and now giving out the same reliable performances for his new boss, Manager Mel Ott, did it again yesterday afternoon at the Polo Grounds when he registered his seventh straight victory of the year. Hub tossed a four-hitter at the Philadelphia Phils as his mates won him a 5 to 2 ball game. Hubbell's record for the year is eight wins against six defeats. Carl's winning streak of seven games is the longest this year in either league for any pitcher. With Hubbell back in winning form again some of Ott's worries of losing Cliff Melton are soothed. By winning yesterday the Giants scrambled back into third place, a half game ahead of the Cincinnati Reds who dropped a 4 to 0 game to St. Louis last night.

ON THE SPOT

By DILLON GRAHAM
Wide World Sports Editor

New York—Some time before the snow falls we may have at least three new world boxing champions.

Along Jacobs Beach you hear that Lulu Constantino, Allie Stolz and Ray Robinson are three contenders sure to win crowns whenever they get the current champions into the ring with their titles at stake.

Constantino lost a non-title duel with featherweight ruler Chalky Wright sometime ago and Stolz dropped a close championship encounter with lightweight king Sammy Angott. But the boxing boys believe these youngsters will cop the crowns whenever they can get title shots.

Robinson, the Harlem hitter who has never lost a bout, probably carries too much artillery for Freddie Cochrane, the welterweight king. Cochrane is a sailor now and will have to get leave from the Navy before he can take on the lean larruper from New York's colored belt.

Constantino had won more than 50 straight fights before he lost to Wright. Opinion at the ringside was divided on this one, some believing Lulu had the edge. They're booked to go again September 25 and this time Lulu can take the title out of the ring with him—if he's good enough.

* * *

Stolz looked good his last time out when he decisioned Wright. It appeared Stolz eased up at the finish when he might have won by a knockout. Robinson's last go was a triumph over Angott. He had Sammy down for a long count but couldn't put the tough-jawed champ out.

Tami Mauriello's draw with Bob Pastor and his victory over Red Burman have caused the experts to rate him the best of the heavyweight prospects, behind Billy Conn and possibly Pastor. Mauriello will have good grounds for a title bid if he gets past Lee Savold, who is on the upgrade again.

There is a possibility that Joe Louis may put his championship on the line in late September. Mike Jacobs wants a big fight the week before the World Series and, if army permission can be had, Joe will battle it out with Conn.

* * *

And, in such case, Billy will have one loud supporter—his father-in-law, Jimmy Smith. That's not because of any family ties because there's no love lost between them (remember Billy busted his hand some weeks ago in a fireside tussle with Smith?)

"He'll beat Louis this fall, just as sure as you're born," Smith told John Carmichael, the roving reporter from Chicago. "But Billy'd never lick me if he lived to be 1,000 years old. I'd die first.

"He's conceited, mean, cold-blooded and heartless," observed Billy's pa-in-law, "but he's afrtid of no man alive and whether that's ignorance or courage, I don't know."

And, as for the frequent comparison of Conn and Corbett, Smith comments:

"I saw Corbett and I think Conn would have run him ragged."

Yankees Complete Seven Double-Plays Against A's For New All-Time Record

Champs Have Made 150 Twin-Killings for Year; Cardinals Shutout Reds

(By The Associated Press)

Arc light baseball has no greater foe than the New York Yankees, but the absence of the sun doesn't seem to bother the world champions when they begin wiping runners off the base paths with their defensive specialty, known to the trade as the double play.

Holders of the major league record for twin killings in a season, the Yankees established a new mark for a single game last night when they completed seven while walloping the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2.

The old record for nine innings was six, set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1925, and tied by four other teams. The Washington Senators, only American leaguers sharing in the record, were the last to tie it in 1933.

By killing two "birds" with one play in every inning except two, the Yankees stretched their total of two-ply executions to 150 for 111 games.

With 43 games in front of them, they need only 47 more double plays to crack the record of 196 for a 154-game season which they set last year.

Even with the help of seven double plays and a 15-hit Yankee attack, Lefty Gomez had to have help from his old standby, Johnny Murphy, to hang up his sixth pitching victory against four defeats. Tommy Henrich drove in four Yankee runs, two of them with his 10th homer.

The record-breaking defensive feat was the standout performance of a baseball day that produced other sparkling jobs, particularly among the pitching stars.

Cards Blank Reds

In another night contest, Mort Cooper hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 decision over Cincinnati, blanking the Reds on two hits.

The shutout, 13th of the year for the Cards, was Cooper's seventh and his third two-hitter. It brought his record to 14 victories, against a half dozen defeats. He fanned six batters and walked none.

At New York, King Carl Hubbell tossed a four-hitter at the Philadelphia Phils as the New York Giants triumphed, 5-2. Two of the Philadelphia hits were homers by Danny Litwhiler and Ron Northey, but the Giants got Hubbell more than enough runs to give him his seventh win in a victory string that is the longest in the National League.

Mickey Witek bagged three of New York's six hits, driving in runs with two of them and putting a runner in scoring position with the third.

"Bean balls" were forgotten at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers walloped the Boston Braves, 10-0 and 7-3, in the first meeting of the two teams since their "duster" throwing provoked a new league rule against the practice.

Curt Davis hurled a seven-hit shutout in the opener, while the Dodgers banged three Boston pitchers for 15 blows. Whitlow Wyatt pitched the nightcap for the National League leaders, but he had to weather a ninth-inning uprising in which the Braves got half of their eight hits and two of their runs.

Camilli Ties Mize

Dolph Camilli hit a home run in each game, with two mates on base in the first and one in the second, to bring his total to 19 and tie Johnny Mize of the Giants for the league lead.

The Chicago Cubs downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1, backing up Lon Warneke's seven-hit pitching with an 18-blow attack, including homers by Bill Nicholson and Stan Hack.

In the only other game in the American League, Hal White tossed a four-hitter at the Chicago White Sox as the Detroit Tigers triumphed, 7-1.

Pipgras, Former Yankee Mound Ace, Can Spot Those Outside Corners

Wide World Features

George Pipgras, an American League umpire since 1938, is very familiar with those outside corners. Pipgras as many baseball fans will recall was a star pitcher for the New York Yankees a little more than a decade ago.

George won 10 and lost only three on that great Yankee team of 1927, and scored a World Series victory against Pittsburgh. The following season he won 24 for the Yanks.

After a later stretch of service with the Boston Red Sox Pipgras took up umpiring in the Eastern League where he served three seasons before getting his appointment to the American League staff in 1938.

Pipgras, a native of Iowa, began his baseball career on the sandlots. It was interrupted when he went to France in the World War. He credits Bob Shawkey, Yankee pitcher at the time, with eliminating his lack of control enabling him to become a fine pitcher.

Dodgers' Macon Makes Comeback With Club

Ex-Cardinal Flinger Lauds Brooks for Team Spirit on His Two-Hitter

Max Macon, slim southpaw lately recalled from the Montreal Royals of the International League by his parent club, the Brooklyn Dodgers, sat on a bench in the Dodger dressing room, receiving the congratulations of his teammates on his two-hit shutout of the New York Giants.

"Gee, Max," exclaimed Joe Medwick, "wish I could have grabbed that one that Witek hit, but it was just out of my reach." And Pee Wee Reese, "if I had been a hundredth of a second quicker in starting I could have nailed Bartell on his grounder, but I couldn't quite come up with it."

Macon sat silent for a time. Then, "imagine that, these fellows actually apologizing to me for my failure to pitch a no-hitter after the entire bunch had supported me brilliantly for nine innings. What a team."

Witek's drive had been bashed against the wall in left field and Reese had managed to get a glove on Bartell's clout directly behind second base. But it wasn't any of these details that Macon was thinking.

He was dwelling instead on his luck through the years from 1937. Then he had one of the best pitching records in the minors for the Columbus American Association, to be called up to the St. Louis Cardinals with every prospect of becoming a major league star as the 1938 season opened.

Has Arm Trouble

He remained with the Cards that year, but developed arm trouble and the following season was sent back to Columbus. Later he was transferred to Newark. His combined record for the year was below the .500 mark in games won. His arm still troubled him but the Dodgers decided to take a chance with him. At the conclusion of the spring training session, they assigned him to Montreal, and he was back there in 1941.

Four years of disappointment were behind him as he finished the 1941 season and his chances of making good in the major leagues appeared definitely to be receding. Then, he decided that hot sun treatment of his arm might be the answer. He resolved to spend the winter in Cuba playing ball.

It now appears that his course was a wise one. His showing with Montreal, prior to his recall was excellent. He has now started three games for the Dodgers. His triumph over the Giants was the most impressive of all.

And the boys were actually offering him apologies for not carrying him through to a no-hitter.

Hen Sells For $400

For a champion Rhode Island Red hen $400 was paid at a poultry show held in Palermo, Argentina. The hen was bred and exhibited by Leonardo Benvenuto. In one day the sales totalled $4,470, the average price per bird being $33.

Memphis Manager

LARRY BROWN

Larry Brown, manager and catcher of the Memphis Red Sox of the Negro American League, who tangle with the Kingston Recreations at the municipal stadium tonight at 9:15 o'clock, is rated the king of all negro catchers. This is his 16th season in negro professional ball. Before coming to the Memphis team he played with the Philadelphia Giants, New York Lincoln Giants, Chicago American Giants and the Homestead Grays. He is a great mechanical receiver and is widely known for his outstanding work with both veteran and young hurlers. He also has a great throwing arm. Bob Smith is also listed for the catcher's department.

Kingston to Seek Seventh Victory Over Negro Clubs

Local Semi-Pro Outfit Has Six Out of Nine; Game Is Slated to Start at 9:15 P. M.

Another Saturday night of baseball is on the menu for local diamond fans tonight at the municipal stadium when the Kingston Recreations engage the Memphis Red Sox of the Negro American League. Game time is scheduled for 9:15 o'clock sharp.

John "Whitey" Tulacz is the expected starter for the Recs tonight. The stocky Pole from Poughkeepsie has grabbed himself eight wins in nine starts for the year and expects to make it victory number nine. But the veteran flinger will need all of his pitching skills to turn back the powerful Memphis club.

Tulacz will be opposed by either Porter "Ankle Ball" Moss or Verdel Mathis, both ace hurlers for the negro outfit. Memphis also will have "Young" Keyes, "Ace" Hutchinson, "Chin" Evans ready for reserve duty.

Tonight's big clash will mark the 10th meeting for the Recs with a negro ball club this year. So far the results have been very satisfactory. In the nine previous matches the local semi-pro unit has won six and dropped three. Both the Recs and their opponents have tallied the exact number of runs in those nine tilts, 29 markers.

Kingston holds victories over the Mohawk Giants, Cuban Stars, Black Yankees, Homestead Grays, Baltimore Elite Giants and the Cincinnati Buckeyes. The team has suffered setbacks by the Brooklyn Royals, Newark Eagles and the Kansas City Monarchs. These sepia outfits represent just about the cream of the crop in negro ball today.

Hope to Shake Slump

The Recreations will not only be out to continue their impressive results with negro clubs this summer but also will be trying to shake off a continued hitting slump. The Recs have totaled exactly 10 hits and two runs in the last three games. This drouth of base hits has put the complete brunt on the hurlers who have been holding their own quite well. Bill Simmons pitched himself a seven-hit 2 to 1 victory over the Buckeyes and then lost by 5-0 at the hands of the Monarchs, although allowing but six hits in seven innings. Except for his loss to the Boston Braves, Tulacz' last complete ball game dates back to his 6-3 win over the Elites.

Whitesell in Outfield

The Recreations are expected to start tonight's game the same as against the Monarchs with the exception of Dick Whitesell in place of Angelo Lucchi. Manager Joe Hoffman may shift his batting order a little to produce more power in a bunch rather than letting it go as it has in the past couple of games. By game time, however, he may make some of those needed changes.

Memphis will bring to the stadium tonight a host of negro stars who have been taking the spotlight in the N. A. L. this year. Memphis won the 1938 championship and since that time has shown outstanding class.

Local fans will see another of those Fancy Dan first sackers when Olan "Jelly" Taylor shows his stuff on the initial sack against the Recs. Besides being a crack first baseman, he poles a tremendous ball. Neil Robinson is another great slugger on the team. He smacked out 54 four-masters last year. A New York city writer recently remarked after watching the Red Sox play, "this club has plenty on the ball and it's no wonder it has taken the fancy of baseball fans everywhere. Packed with talented pitching and good hitters, the Red Sox have an excellent chance of copping the title again this year."

Williams Lake Will Hold Swimming Meet Aug. 23

A.A.U. Championships Are Slated; Entries Coming in Fast; Big Crowd Is Anticipated

Swimming fans of Ulster county have a treat in store for them on August 23 when the Williams Lake Athletic Club will sponsor the Senior National Individual and Team Long Distance Championships of the A.A.U. This will be the first time that a swimming event of such importance has ever been held in the Adirondack District of the A.A.U. and it is expected to attract quite a crowd of spectators as well as entrants.

Already Fred Dippel, swimming director at Williams Lake, has received entries from as far west as Ann Arbor, Michigan, and as far south as Camp Shelby, Mississippi. Team entries have been received from the New York Athletic Club, the Firestone Club of Akron, Ohio, the Orange Y. M. C. A. and the Grand Central Y. M. C. A. of New York city. With the race still a week and a half away there has already been 17 entry blanks sent in.

The event will be held over a quarter-mile course in Williams Lake, town of Rosendale. There will be a quarter-mile rope stretched in the lake with floats every six feet. The swimmers will start in front of the grand stand, make eight complete circuits around the rope and finish in front of the grand stand. The loud speaker system will keep the fans posted continuously as to the identity of the swimmers.

The winner of the race will receive the regulation gold senior National A. A. U. championship medal plus a special trophy and his expenses to defend his title next year. Second and third place individual winners will receive regulation silver and bronze senior national championship medals. Each member of the winning team will receive regulation A.A.U. gold senior national team championship medals which the second and third placing teams will receive the same in silver and bronze. The club winning the individual championship will receive a trophy. There is also a special trophy for the first swimmer 35 years of age or over to finish the race.

Last year's champion, Steve Wozniak, of Buffalo, now a private in the armed forces and stationed at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, has received a special furlough in order to be at Williams Lake to defend his title.

Old Salts Return

Indignantly denying they are unfit for further sea duty, "old salts" pester naval authorities at Belfast, Northern Ireland, demanding they be permitted to return on duty. "Owl Bob" Daly, 62, a petty officer who has spent 35 years on the waters, exemplified this spirit recently when he drew himself up to his full six feet of height and snorted his belief he was "as fit as the first day I went to sea" when quizzed at recruiting offices.

Horseshoe Nails Needed

Release of horseshoes and horseshoe nails in Australia has been promised the Auckland, New Zealand Farmers Union by D. G. Sullivan, Minister of Supply. Farmers reported they are suffering from a shortage of iron and nails and also of blacksmiths, many of the smithies having been called into the service. Orders in advance from Australia will solve the problem, the Minister told the Union.

Hogan Increases Lead in Tourney To Five Strokes

Hershey, Pa., Golfer Totals 132; Jugs McSpaden Is Next With 137 Score

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP).—Blazi' Ben Hogan moved into the third session of the $5,000 Times-Union open today well fortified with a five-stroke lead—result of two days of sub-par play.

Yesterday, as a big gallery watched wide-eyed, the slender Texan carved a two under per 68—four strokes above his record-smashing opening ground of 64 for a 36-hole total of 132.

Little Ben's nearest competition, five strokes back at 137, was the Veteran Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Philadelphia. The way Hogan has been cracking par, the idea of overhauling him must be appalling to McSpaden and the other low scorers.

The latter group included Sammy Byrd, ex-Yankee outfielder, and Chick Harbert, the St. Paul open winner from Battle Creek, Mich., both of whom posted even-par 140s. Trailing with 141s were Horton Smith, the former Joplin ghost, now of Springfield, Mo.; Dutch Harrison, Camp Hill, Pa.; Clay Heafner, Linville, N. C., and and Jimmy Demaret, Detroit.

Although Hogan failed to better his tremendous opening round 64, he at least had the satisfaction of overcoming the one hole that jinxed him on the first 18-hole test. He got a birdie 3 on the 17th yesterday. Thursday he drew a double bogey six.

The rest of the round was peaches and cream for Ben. He banged out three birdies, 14 pars and one bogey. His toe shots were whoppers and he had full control of his irons. Only on the greens did he falter from his opening round standard in that the long ones wouldn't drop.

Others still hopeful for a crack at the lead included Craig Wood, Mamaroneck; Jimmy Thomson, Chicopee, Mass., and Ky Laffoon, Miami, Okla., all with 42.

Harry Nederbladt, Avon, Conn.; Willie Goggin, White Plains; Amateur Ted Bishop, Waltham, Mass.; Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, and Jimmy Hines, Lakeville, headed into the final half with 143s.

Dodgerettes Play Fullers on Sunday

Poughkeepsie Calls Off Game With Locals

Manager Meb Lynch's Pleasure Yacht Dodgerettes will play Fullers at Block Park Sunday afternoon starting at 2:30 o'clock sharp. The Dodgerettes were to have played Poughkeepsie this week but the Bridge City management called off the contest.

Lois Croswell has been nominated by Manager Lynch to do the hurling Sunday. Arlene Van Buren also will be ready for mound duties with Louise Leonard doing the catching. Helen Guessex and Carmel Perry will work for Fullers.

John Prucnal and John Hoffman will be the umpires in this battle.

Bill Terry Admits Brooklyn Dodgers Have Good Chance

Giant General Manager Gives Brooks Credit for Amazing Team; After Prospect

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15 (AP).—Bill Terry, general manager of the New York Giants who once wondered if Brooklyn was in the National League, cocked his foot on the back of a hotel chair today and allowed as how the Dodgers had a right smart ball club.

Terry, who came here to look over the fielding and batting wares of one Luis Olmo, of the Richmand Colts, even went so far as to say that Brooklyn had more than a "chance" to whip the New York Yankees if they meet in the world series.

"I think the Brooklyn club, if it wins the National League pennant and it looks like they will do it, has a very good chance to beat the Yankees. Brooklyn has an amazing team, and you have to give them credit."

Schroeder Will Be Out to Protect Tennis Lead Today

California Ace Holds Good Margin Over Seymour Greenberg Before Rain Stops Play

Newport, R. I., Aug. 15 (AP).—The weather-jinxed Newport Casino Tennis Tournament picks up today where it left off in two matches yesterday, with officials also hoping to clear the decks for both singles and doubles finals on Sunday.

In the transplanted Rye, N. Y., Eastern Grass Court Final, which was postponed there last Sunday, Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., will take the court with a 9-7, 6-2, 2-0 lead over Seymour Greenberg of Chicago.

The match was halted in the third set yesterday, as was the Newport quarter-finals singles match between Tom Richards of Los Angeles and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia. Richards won the first set, 6-4, lost the second, 5-7, and was leading 3-2 in the third.

The winner will join the top-seeded Schroeder and Harris Everett of Jacksonville, Fla., in the semi-finals. The fourth semi-finalist will be provided from a match between Bill Talbert of Cincinnati and Ellis Slack of Long Beach, Calif.

Doubles quarter-finals and possibly semi-finals also are scheduled for today's program.

Occupation Will Be Favorite in Futurity Today

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—Occupation, a fast-worker that has picked up $59,100 in four months of racing, goes to the post today heavily backed to win the $69,875 Washington Park Futurity.

Making his bid for the 1942 juvenile money winning title, the spritely colt, owned by John Marsch, a Chicago contractor, was top weighted at 122 pounds in a field of 11 horses named overnight Jockey Lester Balaski will be aboard.

If Occupation wins the six furlongs classic—richest juvenile race of the year—his earnings will soar to $117,575. The winners' share will be $58,475.

No Weights Will Be Announced in Fishing Contest

George Ruppert, Sponsor, Believes More Entries Will Be Made; Open to General Public

If you knew beforehand that a certain horse was going to win a race, would you bet on the loser? If you knew that the Yankees were going to beat the Boston Red Sox 8 to 1, would you go to the ball game? If you knew beforehand that a certain prize fighter was going to knock his opponent out in the fifth round, would you spend $15.50 for a ring-side seat to see it?

"It is my belief that the same holds true in the Fishing Contest I am sponsoring," writes George Ruppert. "I am quite positive," Mr. Ruppert said, "that if certain weights of 13 species of fish were not made public, the contest would not only be more interesting but more entries would be received."

According to the contest committee there have been a numbr of big fish disqualified. This fact is unknown to his captor in some instances, but also to the fishing editors who have published that a fish had been entered in the contest.

There are various reasons why fish are disqualified. Therefore, in the future no weights of any fish will be publicized. Interested fishers who would like to know more about this contest may write to P. O. Box F, Little River Station, Miami, Fla., for further details. All printed matter, information and entry blanks will be provided upon receipt of letter.

Heavy Tennis Card Pits Pauline Betz In Tourney Finals

Essex Club Title Will Be Decided Today; Eastern Crown Is Up for Sunday

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 15 (AP).—The topseeded and second-ranked doubles teams were scheduled to decide two women's championships during the next two days—the Essex County Club's tandem title today and the Eastern grass court crown tomorrow.

Playing for the Essex title, the No. 1 duo of Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Margaret Osborne of San Francisco will meet second-seeded Pauline Betz of Winter Park, Fla., and Doris Hart of Miami. The four will play again tomorrow in the grass court final postponed last Sunday from Rye, N. Y.

The Brough-Osborne duo advanced to the Essex finals with a 4-6, 6-3, 8-6 victory over Mrs. Madge Harshaw Vosters of Lansdowne, Pa., and Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of Jackson Heights, N. Y. The Betz-Hart team moved up at the expense of Kay Winthrop of Hamilton, Mass., and Hope Knowles of Avon, Conn., 6-2, 6-4.

In singles semi-finals slated for today, Miss Brough will play Miss Osborne, the defending champion, and the topseeded Miss Betz will engage Miss Hart. Singles finals will be played tomorrow.

Miss Brough joined the other semi-final trio yesterday with a previously-postponed quarter-finals victory over Miss Winthrop, 6-4, 6-2.

San Francisco—Cecilio Lozada, 152, Mexico, and Buddy Green, 154, Oakland, drew, (8).

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

New Orleans—Charles Burley, 160, Pittsburgh, won by technical knockout from Holman Williams, 156¾, Detroit, (9).

Elizabeth, N. J.—Marvin Bryant, 148, Dallas, Tex., outpointed Buddy Farrell, 149, Newark, (10).

Waterbury, Conn. — Willie Roach, 130, Wilmington, Del., outpointed Matt Dougherty, 134½, Milwaukee, (8).

Gedney Aces Win

The Gedney Aces scored a 6 to 1 victory over Marks' All Stars Friday morning at Hasbrouck Park. Gedney and Steltz worked for the winners. Marks and Wenzel formed the battery for the losing club. Carter and Gedney paced the victors with doubles. Other players in the Gedney lineup poked out two hits apiece. Keppen connected for the only safe blow on the Marks' offensive department.

St. Joseph's Picnic Will Be Held Sunday

The annual picnic for the parishoners and friends of St. Joseph's Church will be held, Sunday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock through the early evening, at Golden Rule Inn. This picnic was postponed last Sunday because of the weather. Free busses will leave St. Joseph's Church every half hour starting at 1 p. m.

During the afternoon there will be a concert by the Catskill Mountaineers. There will be boating, bathing and games of all kinds. Two softball games are scheduled between the teams of Mayor Edelmuth and Dr. O'Connor and another between St. Joseph's and St. Peter's Church teams.

Refreshments and eats will be on sale and everyone is welcome. The committee has made plans for 1,200.

Must Decide on Crops or Education

Los Angeles, Aug. 15 (AP)—California may soon have to decide whether it's more important to get its crops harvested or to permit its students to continue their educations uninterrupted.

The proposal that high schools remain closed until October 15 or possibly November 1 to allow youths to fill the gaps in labor's ranks, finds scant favor among Los Angeles education authorities. A move is crystallizing, however, to let boy volunteers remain away from classes until the crops are in, and then make special provision for permitting them to catch up with their studies.

Chaffey High School of Ontario, in the heart of the citrus belt near here, already has decided to make 1,800 pupils available for farm work as long as they're needed. Principal Ernest W. Fischer said his charges will be permitted to spend the mornings in classrooms and afternoons in the citrus groves and harvest fields.

Bride of Corporal

MRS. ALBERT J. HENRY

Miss Eleanor L. Bundy, daughter of Private Dewey Bundy of 15 Warren street, became the bride of Corporal Albert J. Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry of Purchase, Saturday, August 8, at 11 o'clock. The picturesque wedding ceremony was held at the home of the bride with the Rev. Donald H. Finley, pastor of the Fleischmanns Methodist Church officiating. The wedding march was played by Miss Evelyn Jones, friend and classmate of the bride.

The bride was gowned in a white crepe street length dress with white accessories and wore a bridal corsage of white roses and baby's breath. The matron of honor, Mrs. Donald H. Finley of Fleischmanns, wore a white silk jersey dress with shaded green floral design and white accessories. She wore a corsage of talisman roses. George Rawlins of Long Island was the best man for the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served for the bridal party and the immediate families at Judie's restaurant. Mr. and Mrs. Henry left for a short wedding trip after which Corporal Henry will return to his military assignment at Washington, D. C. The bride will resume her teaching at Purchase.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School, New Paltz Normal School and has attended advanced courses at Columbia University. She is a member of the faculty of the Purchase Elementary School where she is instructor of kindergarten and art.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Harrison High School, Westchester, and Syracuse University, where he was president of his fraternity, Phi Kappa Tau. Corporal Henry is now stationed with the weather department of the United States Army Air Corps, Bolling Field, Washington, D. C.

Little Gardens Club Sees Movies Will Hold Picnic This Month

The Little Gardens Club met at the home of Mrs. Sidney Clapp, 197 Washington avenue, Friday evening. This proved to be the most interesting meeting of the year.

Mr. Clapp presented pictures of gardens visited by Mr. and Mrs. Clapp in Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, New Hampshire and New York. He also spoke of the many so-called weeds which under cultivation prove successful in gardens. Mr. Clapp stressed the fact that many of the beautiful wild flowers which formerly grew in profusion have entirely disappeared in some localities due to the ruthless pulling of roots by people gathering the flowers.

After the meeting, the hostess served delicious refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be the annual picnic of the club, August 28, and will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William McNamee in West Hurley. The committee arranging for the picnic is Mrs. John H. Saxe, Mrs. John D. Groves, Mrs. G. A. Nussbaum, Mrs. Claude Twombly and Mrs. William McNamee.

Cooper-Traver

Miss Mary Louise Traver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Traver, of Rhinebeck, was united in marriage to Asa Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cooper of the Saugerties road, Sunday evening, August 9, at 7:45 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. W. George W. Anthony, acting rector of the Church of the Messiah, Rhinebeck, officiated. Mrs. Elsa Casey presided at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Roy F. Traver, Jr. She wore a street dress of dusty pink with hat and accessories to harmonize. Mrs. Raymond Stone was her sister's matron of honor and wore a blue street dress with harmonizing hat and accessories. Raymond Stone acted as best man.

A small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Chestnut street. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will make their home in Hudson.

The bride was graduated from Rhinebeck High School in 1937 and from the New Paltz State Teacher's College this June. At New Paltz she was a member of Theta Phi sorority and this fall she will teach at Hudson.

Ackerman-Bontempi

Saugerties, Aug. 15—Miss Eleanor Bontempi of Ithaca became the bride of Townsend Ackerman, Monday afternoon, August 10, at Ithaca. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert K. Kness in the rectory of the Immaculate Conception Church there, at 2:30 o'clock. The attendants were Miss Elsie Bontempi and Albert E. Daley. Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman will reside on Jane street, Saugerties.

Plan Annual Show At Piping Rock

Arrangements are going forward rapidly for the 40th Annual Piping Rock Horse Show which will be held at Locust Valley, L. I., September 17, 18 and 19. Total gross receipts from the sale of general admission tickets, grandstand boxes, ringside parking spaces and programs will be donated, without any deductions, to the Army Emergency Relief.

The Piping Rock Horse Show this year is dedicated to the memory of "Traveller", a "Confederate gray" of Gray Eagle stock, who was owned by General Robert E. Lee of Civil War fame. Foaled in 1857, Traveller was a blue ribbon thoroughbred reared in Greenbrier county, Va., now W. Va. He was acquired by General Lee in the autumn of 1861, and because of his sturdiness, endurance, and spirit, he gradually displaced Lee's other horses and carried the famous general through the important campaigns of the war to the final days at Appomattox.

The relations between Traveller and his master were almost personal in their mutual regard and understanding. In speaking of him, Lee once said that many a war horse is more truly entitled to immortality than is the man who rode him.

According to tradition, at Lee's funeral Traveller lowered his head to the coffin and whinnied. His own death came only a few months later. He was buried near the tomb of his master on the campus of Washington and Lee University, of which General Lee was president during the closing years of his life.

Mrs. Macil Bower to Marry

New York, Aug. 14 (Special)—Mrs. Macil S. Bower, formerly of Kingston, at present of 150 West 98 street, New York city, and Frederick A. Rinus, of the same New York address, were granted a marriage license today at the Municipal Building here. They stated that the ceremony would take place on Monday in the City Chapel with Deputy City Clerk Philip A. Hines officiating.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Lewis and Betty Snuffer. She was born in Kingston. Her first husband, Mark Bower, died in 1940. Mr. Rinus was born in Rome, N. Y., the son of William P. and Sara Grimes Rinus.

Announce Engagement

Ellenville, August 15—Mr. and Mrs. John Spadaro of this village announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Irene Spadaro, to Bernard John Stickles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stickles, at a buffet luncheon held at the Indian Valley Inn, Kerhonkson, Sunday, August 9. The couple expects to be married in the fall.

Good Taste Today

QUESTIONS ARE HARD TO ANSWER WHEN NAME OF A READER CAN BE EITHER MASCULINE OR FEMININE

I've often wished that a magic television might let me see my readers whose questions I try to answer. I'm not even sure whether the letter in front of me now is from a girl or a man. Nothing gives me a clue as to whether a girl or boy asking, "May I go to spend the week-end with the family of a freshman classmate without an invitation from the mother of my friend?"

The several answers to this, are: If you are a girl and your classmate is a boy, you should not go without a definite invitation from his mother or whoever is "the lady of the house" at his home. On the other hand, if your classmate is a girl, a message to her, saying that you are expected or will be welcome is sufficient. This is also sufficient if you are a boy going to stay with the family of a girl. If you are a boy going to stay with a boy, his invitation is all that is necessary.

Should Godparents Be Man and Wife?

Dear Mrs. Post: Who should be asked to be a baby's godparents and should they be a man and wife or isn't this obligatory? Or might her relatives be asked instead of friends?

Answer: To ask a man and wife to be godparents to the same child is very unusual. Personally at least, I have known of only one case when a husband and wife both stood up at a christening. That was at the double christening of twins. Occasionally near relatives are god parents, but unless the family is so large that the baby is not likely to be lacking in plenty of relatives, friends are preferably chosen in order to secure greater protection for the baby, in case it is left without any of its family.

Bridesmaid's Obligations

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me what obligations each bridesmaid incurs when she accepts the invitation to take part in the wedding?

Answer: Her obligation includes providing the clothes that she is to wear at the wedding, and giving the bride as nice a present as she can afford. On the other hand, the bride is expected to show consideration by making the cost of these clothes as moderate as possible. If any of the bridesmaids can't afford to give a present as well as get the clothes, then the present is the item that is overlooked. If she still can't get the clothes then—unhappily—she can't be bridesmaid.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Names and Signatures." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Each summer under-privileged children from both the city and county are given the opportunity to enjoy ideal camp life at Camp Happyland. This camp is maintained entirely through the Christmas Seal sale and is now located on upper Clifton avenue quite apart from the city on its sloping grounds.

During the month of July a group of boys were entertained but at the present time and through this month there are 46 girls from five to 12 years of age. Miss Katherine Murphy superintends the camp and she is ably assisted by a staff composed of the resident nurse, Miss Miriam Maroon, and two counselors, the Misses Evelyn Olivet and Agnes McManus.

On the main floor of the house is the kitchen and dining room, and porch and small room sleeping quarters for the younger girls. The dining hall is done in pale blue with children's pictures hanging along the walls and is furnished with white tables and benches. On the second floor is the older girls' dormitory and in the basement are the wash rooms and showers. Each of the girls has her own numbered hook for wash cloth, towel, toothpaste and brush and these articles make a uniform design as they are hung around the room.

The infirmary furnished with several cots and medical equipment is at the one end of another building separated from the play hall auditorium. In this auditorium, is a stage with scenery, curtain, piano, and rows of benches. Along the sides are chests where toys and work materials are stored. The windows may be darkened and movies are shown, amateur nights held and later this season the girls hope to present a play for entertainment. Some skit nights and community sings have already been conducted. The children enjoy singing especially "catchy" camp tunes and rounds of which the most popular is "Bingo."

Just outside the entrance to the play hall are several benches shaded by awnings where handicraft work is done. The girls are making hot dish mats with woven crepe paper, checker boards, embroidery, colored paint books, and are folding Christmas Seals. On schedule for the remainder of their vacation are more sewing, pot holders, coloring and shellacing of vases, doll furniture and innumerable novelties made with wall paper.

Cleanliness, plenty to eat and plenty of rest are requisites of camping to build strong bodies. One of the girls this year gained six pounds in one week.

The Day's Schedule

The day starts at 7:30 with flag raising ceremonies and patriotic songs at 7:50. This is followed by breakfast and a period of general camp duties. The girls are divided into four teams with points awarded for assisting in the kitchen, making beds, as well as for the general conduct and handicraft work. The older girls' teams are the Army Nurses and the WAACS and the younger girls have chosen the names of Red Cross and Navy nurses. The score to date this week is Army Nurses, 125; WAACS, 157; Red Cross Nurses, 26 and Navy Nurses, 24.

At 9:15 is a period of the morning for free play when the children play in the fields or swing. This is climaxed at 10 o'clock by the serving of mugs of milk for during each day each girl must consume a quart of milk. Sun baths are taken and a class in crafts taught during the morning.

After dinner, various phases of health and hygenics are discussed with the children and a "must" rest hour to 3:30 is taken. The younger girls are required to take a nap at this time each day. Then comes more mugs of milk and sun baths, play periods, swimming in the pool, and supper.

In the evening, organized play is conducted and dramatics with community singing are drawn to a close by the lowering of the flag at 7:45 and the singing of taps. Lights are out at 8:30 and all are tucked in for a much needed rest.

Weather permitting picnics are held on the grounds of the camp, Sunday and Wednesday evenings with a frankfurter roast and marshmallow toast featured in the proceedings. Hikes are also taken from the camp.

Sunday mornings, the Protestant girls attend the worship service at the Trinity Lutheran Church and the Catholic children go to the 10 o'clock service at St. Mary's Church. Sunday afternoons are spent in writing letters home for the children are at the camp for four weeks.

A well-stocked library is maintained in the play hall and most of the best books are usually "out." The children may read during the day and also in the evening before lights are turned off. Several evenings during the week the counselors conduct story hours when they read to the children. Favorite games with the girls are Mimic, a-Tisket-a-Tasket, and Louby Lou.

The girls' vacation at camp this season is expected to close August 27.

Chile will repair old vessels that have been out of use for a long time and have them carry freight along the coast.
